A DIARY OF THE SIEGE.

The Mexicans Resolute, and the French Losing Ground.

They Are Driven Back to the Fort San Javier.

Failure of an Assault upon the Carmen Fort.

A BATTLE AT ATLIXCO.

Horses, Mules and Provisions Captured from the French.

By the arrival of the English steamer Clyde at Havana, from Vera Cruz, and the steamer Eagle at this port, from Havana, files of papers from the Mexican Republic have been received, containing full details of the operations of the siege of Puebla. Those in the French interest and the papers that favor the Mexican Government are very discordant in their accounts, giving often an entirely different version of the same affair, as will be seen in the accounts of the battle at Atlixco. The accompanying extracts from a Vera Cruz paper, the Eco del Comercio, are evidently written to mystify the world, for the diary of the siege proves that the resistance is obstinate, and that FOREY, instead of taking the place, has been driven back to San Javier, the fort which he took at the commencement of the siege—or which he rather destroyed, for it was only a heap of ruins when he occupied it.

The following is translated from the Diario de la Marina:

"The English steamer from Vera Cruz has not brought us, as was generally expected, decisive news about the siege of Puebla. The Eco del Comercio, of Vera Cruz, which, as is well known, is prejudiced against the Mexicans, publishes in its last paper accounts from both sides, which only reach to the 19th of April from that City. The Mexican papers publish dispatches from COMONFORT, with news about the siege of Puebla up to the 21st.

It must be allowed that all which is given of the operations is confused. But what the strictest impartiality and a sound reasoning makes evident is, that up to the 21st of last month, the besiegers had made very little progress in the siege of Puebla, that the city was not entirely surrounded, but very far from being so, and at that date the French continued cannonading the city from San Javier and the adjoining blocks of houses, which had been taken at the commencement."

The following is extracted from the Eco del Comercio, of Vera Cruz:

"We have received a file of the daily dispatches communicated by Gen. ORTEGA to Gen. COMONFORT, and transmitted by the latter to the Minister at war. We extract the most interesting details that they contain:

PUEBLA, April 11—1 P. M.

Nothing of importance has occurred in the City.

The labors of both besieged and besiegers continue with much activity, although with more slowness on the part of the latter.

The besiegers have leveled part of the blocks of houses that they occupy. The block in which the Hospital is situated is changed as it were into a heap of ruins, as well as a large number of houses and buildings of the quarter in the western part of the City.

On the side of the besieged there have been fired, up to the 7th, 27,000 cannon balls, and thrown into the enemy's camp rather more than a thousand shells. The infantry ammunition—says Gen. ORTEGA—that have been used up to the above date has been very little, for the number of shots fired up to the above date did not amount to 100,000. The killed and wounded on our side lately have been few.

SAN GERONIMO, April 12, 1863.

There begins to be heard a very heavy firing of cannon and musketry in Puebla. COMONFORT.

To the Minister at War:

The look-out at Ocotlan sends word as follows at 7 A. M.: It is 7 o'clock. They are bombarding the city from the positions of Santiago, the garita of Cholula and San Matins. The firing is lively. COMONFORT.

To the Minister at War:

It is 8½ o'clock, at which hour the bombardment of the city concluded. COMONFORT.

PUEBLA, April 13—4:15 P. M.

To Gen. Comonfort:

The enemy continue their cannon firing. The musketry firing on both sides has been slow and continued. The enemy has not made another attack, but they do not cease to throw projectiles and rifle bullets on the city. We have had but few killed and wounded last night and to-day. Your friend and comrade, J. G. ORTEGA.

SAN GERONIMO, April 15, 1863.

To the Minister at War:

Our forces that sallied in the direction of Atlixco, against the French, had, yesterday, a fierce engagement, which lasted for nearly three hours. Up to the present we have no details to communicate to you.

The following is translated from the Siglo:

LATEST NEWS.

There has just been received the following dispatch:

OCOTLAN, April 14, 1863.

To the President of the Republic:

In conformity with the orders that I received from the Commander-in-Chief last night, at 1 o'clock, I broke the enemy's line with the division of cavalry which is under my command, consisting of 1,500 horsemen, driving back the Eighty-first regiment of the line which we met in our way, killing and taking prisoners several, whom I have brought with me. The important message that I bring for you will be communicated by a courier.

OCOTLAN, April 14, 1863.

[Received in Mexico at 1 P. M.]

To the Minister at War:

The bombardment of yesterday was against Carmen, San Agustin and Merced. Our defence works have not been injured, for the attack was foreseen.

The enemy's army has not been able to advance a single foot, in spite of their efforts. We maintain our line in the blocks of houses. Our troops feel a perfect conviction that Puebla will not be taken by the French army. With this conviction they rest upon their arms, constantly pointed against the enemy, loaded with three bullets and armed with the bayonet.

The French army, according to prisoners and our spies, is convinced that it will not take Puebla, because every house is a barricade and every block a castle.

The intrenchments of our first line of defence are ten metres thick. Every block, outside and inside, has two lines of these intrenchments. The second line of blocks of houses is fortified in the same manner, and so with the third.

The peaceable portion of the population carry on their business under the projectiles of the enemy, for they are accustomed to them, after 30,000 which have been showered upon the city and its defenders.

The fires which they cause are extinguished immediately.

In the city there are eaten every kind of fresh meat and other fresh provisions, which are brought from outside, deceiving the vigilance of the besiegers. Of the other articles of food there is of all kinds, and the best furnished tables have had to make but few reductions. Charcoal is scarce, but the beams of the buildings that have been destroyed, and those that have made a heap of ruins, are more than sufficient. T. O'HORAN.

OCOTLAN, April 14, 1863.

To the Minister at War:

I have fulfilled a duty and the intentions of the Commander-in-Chief, and the greater part of my companions of the Army of the East, in assuring the Minister at War, and for him to transmit it to the Government, that the Army of the East will defend Puebla even if it is buried under its ruins; this all the Generals and many of the Commanders with whom I could speak before my departure, commissioned me to inform you. My departure was made known in the city two days before it took place. The valiant Legion of the North are here, and their courageous Commander, EUGENIO GARCIA, and it formed the vanguard last night. In the combat that took place to break the line, my division only fired three pistol shots; the rest was done with the points of their lances and their swords. T. O'HORAN.

SAN GERONIMO, April 14, 1863.

To the Minister at War:

In a private letter, dated yesterday, Gen. ORTEGA tells me as follows:

PUEBLA, April 13, 1863—4:15 P. M.

To Gen. Comonfort:

MY DEAR FRIEND AND COMRADE—The enemy has not been able to gain an inch. They continue their cannonfiring against Carmen and the redoubts adjoining that fort, situated between it and San Agustin, on the side that looks to the country, but they have not been so lucky with respect to them, for our artillery has silenced them two or three times. If the enemy have not put in play all their pieces, in like manner we have not put in action over the tenth part of our mortars and cannon. The musketry firing on both sides has been slow and continuous. I have the honor to communicate the above to you for the information of the President, adding that, Gen. O'HORAN broke, last night, the enemy's lines, and ought to arrive in a few hours at these headquarters.

COMONFORT.

The Heraldo of Mexico City, of the 22d, contains the following, as the last news received of the seige of Puebla:

At 8 A. M. of yesterday Gen. COMONFORT informed by telegraph that a fire was observed in Puebla, in the direction of San Agustin, and that the enemy were directing a firing of cannon and musketry against the city.

At 10:50 A. M., there was received the following telegram:

SAN GERONIMO, April 21, 1863.

Citizen Minister at War:

The invading forces which were at Atlixco, being attacked by the Ramos brigade and the guerrillas that I appointed for this object, have evacuated that place, falling back on Cholula. I have ordered, in consequence, the necessary steps to be taken. The fire which was perceived in Puebla, in the direction of San Agustin, is diminishing, and the firing of cannon and musketry has ceased. COMONFORT.

Since then there have been received the following:

SAN GERONIMO, April 21, 1863.

Citizen Minister at War:

The look-out of Ocotlan sends me the following:

The cannon firing is beginning at the points of the garita of Cholula, and the entrance of the streets of Santiago and San Agustin, which induces me to believe that the enemy have not made an advance of even a foot. The fire is diminishing very much. COMONFORT.

LATER.—The fire of which I spoke to you in my last has altogether ceased. COMONFORT.

DETAILS OF THE DEFEAT OF COMONFORT AT ATLIXCO—FRENCH ACCOUNT.

On the 22d of April last, an expedition left, under the command of Col. BRINCOURT, with the object of supplying Atlixco with provisions and forage. It was composed of the following forces: A battalion of the First regiment of Zouaves; a section of Mountain artillery; three squadrons of African Chasseurs; the squadron commanded by D. ABRAHAM DE LA PENA, and two battalions of infantry, of Gen. MARQUEZ' force. Total—1,490 men.

Atlixco was occupied by some forces of CARVAJAL, who abandoned the place on the approach of the Franco-Mexican troops.

On the afternoon of the 13th, the inhabitants of Atlixco and its vicinity, gave the alarm, announcing the appearance of CARVAJAL with several thousand men; the bells were set ringing, the streets deserted, and the churches filled with women. The sentries on the look-out signaled, in fact, the approach of some squadrons which appeared to be wandering round the town.

On the morning of the 14th there appeared, distinctly, in the plain, several squadrons and various bodies of infantry about a league off, taking different directions, as if they intended to surround Atlixco and hem in completely the forces of the expedition.

As the enemy's forces were separated by large spaces of ground, Col. BRINCOURT ordered his attack in such a manner that, while he cut off their retreat by occupying a bridge, he could be fighting them in detail.

His plan succeeded admirably. The African Chasseurs and the Dragoons of PEÑA broke the enemy's cavalry, so that they were completely disorganized and introduced the greatest confusion among the infantry.

Trying to gain ground, the above forces, in order to recover themselves and return to the charge, proceeded in the direction of the Bridge of Oxocopan, being ignorant that it was occupied by two companies of Zouaves, one hundred of MARQUEZ' infantry and the section of artillery. The fugitives, being received with bullets, were thrown in confusion in every part of the plain, where they were perseveringly followed up.

This first result of the combat prevented the most considerable part of the enemy's division from daring to front the Franco-Mexican forces. The cavalry abandoned the infantry, who retreated hastily, in complete confusion, leaving a large number of killed, wounded and prisoners, arms and horses.

According to the information given to Col. BRINCOURT, the troops which attacked him amounted to 6,000 men, under the command of Gen. ECHEAGARAY, the Chief of COMONFORT's Staff, and consisted of 12 battalions of infantry, a battery of rifled artillery, a battery of mountain artillery and 12 squadrons under the command of CARVAJAL, AURELIANO, RIVERA and PORFIRIO GARCIA DE LEON. The latter was killed by M. JORKA, a Moldavo-Wallachian officer.

Gen. ECHEGARAY had left the town of Huejoringo, taking, imprudently, a cross-road, along which carriages could not pass. This delayed the passage of his artillery, and explains the concentration of his infantry at the foot of the hills of Tianguis, whilst his cavalry, full of confidence, advanced to the danger.

The behavior of Col. ORTOZ DE LA PENA was so brilliant that Gen. FOREY has decorated this valiant commander with the cross of the Legion of Honor.

MEXICAN ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE OF ATLIXCO.

SAN GERONIMO, April 15, 1863.

To the Minister at War:

Gen. ECHEAGARAY sends me word from San Buenaventura, dated to-day at 5 A. M., as follows:

Complying with the orders that you were pleased to communicate to me, I proceeded, the day before yesterday, in the direction of Atlixco, with the object of attacking the enemy that were proceeding from Cholulo to the former place, and to recover it and take from the enemy the provisions that they were carrying, if possible. Yesterday, at noon, the enemy was observed in the plain situated between Atlixco and the declivity of San Juan Tianguismanalco, and a fight took place between our cavalry and a part of the infantry with the enemy's force, composed of artillery, cavalry and infantry. In the beginning, the enemy succeeded in obtaining some advantage over our cavalry, on which account I ordered the battalion of infantry sent to their support to fall back to the position which I had previously selected to give or resist an engagement. Then the enemy formed in infantry column, advanced upon our position as far as the foot of the declivity of Tianguismanalco, opening upon us a fire of artillery.

This was not answered for half an hour, with the hope that they would advance within musket range; but not having done so, their fire was answered by our artillery, and immediately they retreated to Atlixco.

The result of the combat was that we remained masters of the field, there having fallen into our power about 500 head of cattle, mules and horses, about 300 sheep, about 30 Arabian horses and several arms.

Such a result could not be obtained, as was natural, without some misfortunes, of which I will inform you when I receive the accounts of the commanders of the forces that fought on that day.

In virtue of the instructions that you were pleased to give me, I returned last night to this place where I arrived at 10 o'clock. Liberty and Reform.

MIGUEL MARIA ECHEAGARAY.

SAN BUENAVENTURA, April 15, 1863—5 A. M.

OUR HAVANA CORRESPONDENCE.

Arrival of the Clyde from Vera Cruz—News from Mexico—Puebla Not Taken—Uncertainty as to the State of Things There—Forey Foiled if not Beaten—Various Reports in Circulation in Havana.

HAVANA, Saturday, May 9, 1863.

The English steamer Clyde, arrived from Vera Cruz on the 6th inst., but brings no decisive news with respect to Puebla. Various reports are in circulation, some saying that FOREY had been compelled to raise the siege, and was in full retreat to Vera Cruz itself. Nothing, however, has been brought by the steamer in confirmation of these rumors; but from many circumstances it appears certain that FOREY has been foiled, if not beaten back. This last is confidently asserted. The newspapers in the French interest in Vera Cruz throw no fresh light upon the siege of Puebla; they publish much, but it is all one-sided.

The Vera Cruz correspondent of the Diario of this city writes as follows to that paper, with the date of April 30:

"On the 20th, there was received here the following news, the truth of which it is not easy to guarantee, namely, the arrival of DOBLADO at Mexico with 14,000 men, from Guanajuato and Sinaloa. Of this force, 7,000 had been taken to assist COMONFORT.

The French had made an attack on Puebla, the above named force in conjunction with COMONFORT repulsed them, forcing them to abandon the positions of San Javier and St. John's Hill, and to occupy their original position of Amalucan on the road to Orizaba.

It was likewise reported that MARQUEZ had been taken prisoner by COMMONFORT's troops.

That communication with Puebla having been opened by COMMONFORT on the side of Mexico city, he had entered into the city 300 wagon loads of provisions and articles of war.

That the loss of the French up to the 16th ult. was great, principally of artillerymen and engineers; that they were in want of provisions and above all of ammunition."

There had been landed at Vera Cruz from the transport steamer Driade and other vessels five iron cannon, three of which were 24-pounders and two 36-pounders, all rifled, and a Paixhan brass gun. They were intended for Puebla.

The Siglo publishes a letter, directed to a person of this city, from a relative at Jalapa, dated April 28, and which, as it proceeds from a favorite and prejudiced source, may be more fully credited than extracts from newspapers, or the letters of correspondents. It is as follows:

"Puebla maintains itself still firm, although, perhaps, you may have heard of the capture of the fort of San Javier, against which they put parallels with forty pieces of cannon, and reduced it to a heap of rubbish; but we had the good fortune to save all the artillery and park of cannon. They afterward opened a breach in the block of the Hospital, where a French column entered, which was met by our forces, and, after a rather severe fight, the French had to run away from the block, without being able to collect their dead, wounded and arms, owing to the severity of our fire. They have five or six blocks in the vicinity of San Javier, but they have not been able to penetrate any further; and GONZALES ORTEGA, Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the East, has determined that if they take Puebla, it shall be its ruins, disputing every block with them as if it was a fortress. Gen. O'HORAN sallied out of Puebla with a column of 1,500 horsemen; having to pass between two places fortified by the French, who, aware beforehnd of his sally, stationed against him a column of 1,200 men of the Eighty-first regiment, with their main guard to intercept his passage, but they were driven back, having many killed, wounded and taken prisoners. Gen. ECHEAGARAY gave them a blow between Atlixco and the declivity of San Juan, in which he took from the French, mules, native and Arabian horses, over 500 head of cattle and 300 sheep, according to the dispatch of April 15.

According to the last news received to the 25th, it is known that after 40 hours' firing of cannon they opened a breach in Carmen, leading their columns as far as Concordin, but they were repulsed.

The traitor BUTRON was completely defeated at Las Cruces, and I believe he will be long before he recovers himself, for he lost many men, arms and cannon, and escaped on foot.

The last dispatch published in the Mexican papers from the seat of war at Puebla is the following:

SAN GERONIMO, April 16, 1863.

To the Minister at War.

I have just received a letter from Gen. ORTEGA, dated yesterday, at 4 o'clock P. M., in which he says, as follows:

"I have written to you since the 11th inst., uninterruptedly, and will do so for the future, that the supreme Government may know with certainty and quickness what occurs between the enemy and this place. For the present I will only tell you, that during the four-and-twenty hours which precede the writing of this letter, there has not occurred anything of importance, and that the enemy has not been able to advance a single step, nor extend its lines along its front and flanks a single handful of ground, notwithstanding that the blocks of houses which the enemy occupied, as well as those which our forces occupy, have been knocked to pieces and destroyed.

The French have raised their camp at Amozoc, and as well from this camp as from those that are in the South they are making garrisons to the front of Carmen. Last night they worked for an hour on the centre of the redoubts of Morelos, enfiladed by the firing from the blocks that we occupy, which work up to the present time appears to be a covered way, or the beginning of a parapet to command the above redoubts and to be able to occupy them.

We have had few killed and wounded.

ORTEGA.

The division of Tamaulipas, under the command of the valiant Gen. GARZA, which is coming to take a part in the war against the French, is already on the way. Soon the army of the centre, which is under the command of Gen. COMONFORT, will consist of 20,000 men, with which he will powerfully contribute to the extermination of the French.

The Mexican Gen. BUTRON, who had pronounced, with the troops under his command, in favor of Intervention, was routed at Tlalpujahua by the Cuellar brigade, with a great loss of killed and prisoners, as well as of his artillery, baggage, arms and ammunition.

The Siglo publishes the following private letter directed to a commercial house in this city, from Vera Cruz, dated the 1st of May:

The news of the capture of Puebla, which was circulated in that city, (Vera Cruz,) is entirely false. This is the last news.

Since the occupation of the fort San Javier the French army has not obtained any advantages; several attacks upon different points have had the same result—ill success and the most complete defeat. On the 19th the French opened a very severe cannonading upon the fort of Carmen. The cannonading lasted for forty hours, and having succeeded in opening a breach, they hurried their columns to the assault. They penetrated as far as Concordin, but they were driven back by the buyonet, leaving the streets strewn with their dead and wounded.

At the last dates, the 23d, the French occupied only San Javier. The loss of the French is very great. They have lost a large number of commanders and officers. That of the Mexicans, according to reliable data, amounts to 2,500 men.

The forces of CARVAJAL, CUELLAR and MILAN are distributed on the road from Vera Cruz to Puebla, awaiting the convoy that takes artillery, gunpowder and more than a million of dollars. LARA.

NEWS FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Conference of the Exchange Commissioners—Gen. Hays Not Wounded—The Third New-York—Movements of Gen. Dix, &c.

FORTRESS MONROE, Tuesday, May 12.

Hon. ROBERT OULD, the rebel Commissioner for the exchange of prisoners, came down the James River to Newport's News, yesterday, to confer with Col. LUDLOW, the United States Commissioner, in reference to the delivery to the latter of the large number of officers and men now in Richmond, recently captured at Fredericksburgh. Transports were sent up to City Point for them this morning. Suitable provision has been made for the sick and wounded.

Gen. HAYS is not wounded, as was reported.

The steamer State of Maine left this morning for City Point with 900 rebel prisoners in charge of Capt. JOHN E. MULFORD. They were captured at Fredericksburgh.

The Third New-York regiment, Col. ALFORD, has been on garrison duty in Fortress Monroe for several months past. About 400 of them left to-night for their homes, their terms of enlistment having expired. The most of them leave on short furlough, however, having reënlisted for the war.

About 300 contrabands, with as many horses, followed Col. KILPATRICK, of Gen. STONEMAN's cavalry, to Gloucester Point, and were there turned over to the Provost-Marshal.

Maj.-Gen. DIX left Fortress Monroe last evening for West Point.

The Irish Brigade.

GEN. MEAGHER'S OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE OPERATIONS AT CHANCELLORSVILLE AND SCOTT'S MILLS—RESIGNATION OF GEN. MEAGHER, ETC.

HEADQUARTERS IRISH BRIGADE,
HANCOCK'S DIVISION, COUCH'S CORPS,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, May 8, 1863.

Maj. John Hancock, Assistant Adjutant-General:

I beg most respectfully to tender you, and through you to the proper authorities, my resignation as Brigadier-General commanding what was once known as the Irish Brigade. That brigade no longer exists. The assault on the enemy's works on the 13th December last reduced it to something less than a minimum regiment of infantry. For several weeks it remained in this exhausted condition. Brave fellows from the convalescent camp and from the sick beds at home gradually reinforced this handful of devoted men. Nevertheless, it failed to reach the strength and proportions of anything like an effective regiment. These facts I represented as clearly and forcibly as it was in my power to do in a memorial to the Secretary of War; in which memorial I prayed that a brigade which had rendered such service and incurred such distressing losses should be temporarily relieved from duty in the field, so as to give it time and opportunity in some measure to renew itself.

The memorial was in vain. It never even was acknowledged. The depression caused by this ungenerous and inconsiderate treatment of a gallant remnant of a brigade that had never once failed to do its duty most liberally and heroically, almost unfitted me to remain in command. True, however, to those who had been true to me—true to a position which I considered sacred under the circumstances—I remained with what was left of my brigade; and, though feeling that it was to a sacrifice rather than to a victory that we were going, I accompanied them, and led them through all the operations required of them at Scott's Mills and Chancellorsville, beyond the Rappahannock.

A mere handful, my command did its duty at those positions with a fidelity and resolution which won for it the admiration of the army. It would be my greatest happiness, as it would surely be my highest honor, to remain in the companionship and charge of such men; but to do so any longer would be to perpetuate a public deception, in which the hard won honors of good soldiers, and in them the military reputation of a brave old race would inevitably be involved and compromised. I cannot be a party to this wrong. My heart, my conscience, my pride, all that is truthful, manful, sincere and just within me, forbid it.

In tendering my resignation, however, as the Brigadier-General in command of this poor vestige and relic of the Irish Brigade, I beg sincerely to assure you that my service, in any capacity that can prove useful, are feely at the summons and disposition of the Government of the United States. That the Government, and the cause, and the liberty, the noble memories, and the future it represents, are entitled unquestionably and unequivocally to the life of every citizen who has sworn allegiance to it, and partaken of its grand protection. But, while I offer my own life to sustain this good Government, I feel it to be my first duty to do nothing that will wantonly imperil the lives of others, or, what would be still more grievous and irreparable, inflict sorrow and humiliation upon a race who, having lost almost everything else, find in their character for courage and loyalty an invaluable gift, which I, for one, will not be so vain or selfish as to endanger. I have the honor to be, most respectfully and truly, yours,

THOMAS FRANCIS MEAGHER,
Brigadier-General Commanding.

IMPORTANT FROM MISSISSIPPI.

A Battle at Clinton, Ten Miles from Jackson.

AN ALL-DAY FIGHT.

The Rebels Defeated by Gen. Grant.

CAIRO, Wednesday, May 13.

Gen. GRANT had a severe battle with Gen. BOWEN, at Clinton, ten miles from Jackson, on the railroad, last Wednesday, lasting all day. BOWEN was beaten and driven back toward Jackson. The women and children are leaving that place for Meridian, and the men are preparing to hold the place.

It is reported from rebel sources that a large force of rebels is coming from Charleston and Mobile, to prevent the capture of Jackson and Vicksburgh, and that GRANT, apprized of the movement, has fallen back to the river to await reënforcements.

The March Toward Port Gibson—Bombarding the Batteries at Grand Gulf—The Lafayette at Work—Running the Batteries—The Guns Manned by Negroes—The Tuscumbia—The Losses.

BELOW GRAND GULF, Thursday, April 30, 1863.

A large force has just been put ashore on the Mississippi side, at a plantation eight miles below Grand Gulf, known as "Bruenburgh," and is now marching toward Port Gibson. The intention is, as near as I can learn the plan of movements, to get in the rear of Grand Gulf, and thus cut off the rebel supplies, obliging them to evacuate the place. Port Gibson is a small town at the terminus of a railroad, eight miles east of Grand Gulf, and forms an important point for rebel operations. From the point where we have just put the troops ashore to Port Gibson is probably not over eight miles, say 3 hours' march, in this now sultry climate. If obliged to skirmish along the way, it will take longer, but the plan must take the rebels somewhat by surprise, and put them to the necessity of making some sudden move. It is believed, from information obtained, that there are no preparations of defence, in the way of earthworks, in that line of attack. We shall, consequently, have an open field and a fair fight at least. Appearances now favor the belief that Grand Gulf will be in our possession within the next six hours.

To resume the history of events where I so suddenly left off yesterday, to improve an opportunity to send forward a letter.

The mistake of withdrawing all the gunboats from before Grand Gulf, was very soon discovered when the rebels returned in force to repair their batteries and remount their disabled guns. Accordingly, the Lafayette was ordered down again to drive the rebels away. She arrived in front of, and within short range of the fort on the bluff about 7 P. M., only some five hours after the boats had been withdrawn, in obedience to the signal from the Benton. The Lafayette went head on, and fired her tremendous 11-inch bow guns, loaded with 10-second shell. The response from the rebel battery was instantaneous and decided. The first three shots took effect upon her upper-works, making large ventilating holes in the smoke-pipes, and scattering cords of splinters from the light woodwork, but doing no other damage. Capt. J. L. BRYANT, in charge of the First division, (11-inch guns,) with MORRISON and O'MALIN as his Captains of guns, did some excellent firing, planting his shells in the very embrasures of the rebel batteries, and covering them with cart-loads of their own earthworks. After firing for half an hour, Capt. WALKE ordered his vessel turned stern to the batteries, when Mr. ELIAS SMITH, with his 100-pound Parrotts, had a chance at them with solid and hollow shot. His Captains of guns, Mr. MARKHAM (a good name for the business) and Mr. GEO. E. BILLINGTON, showed excellent tact, making careful ranges, and often sending shot and shell plump into the rebel embrasures during the previous fight. His loaders and spongers—CORRA, an old French man-o'-war's man, and WEBSTER HOBIN, at one gun, and PATRICK KEENAN and JAMES MCKEEVER, at the other—exhibited excellent traits of steadiness and courage throughout the action. All his men, Mr. SMITH says, behaved well.

Some of the most accurate and effective shooting during the day was done by Mr. F. G. SAMPSON's 9-inch shell guns, fighting broadside. Mr. ROLLINS, one of his gun Captains, an excellent officer and practiced marksman at heavy guns, shot one 9-inch shell through a house in the ravine, where a whole crowd of rebels had been seen but a moment before, tearing the place to atoms. The rebel magazine was near the same spot. His other Captain, ANTOINE ORANGE, a Frenchman, who has had long experience on French men-of-war, showed that he had not a superior for steadiness and a quick eye aboard the ship. In a word, the firing on board the Lafayette received encomiums from the officers both of the army and of the gunboats for its effectiveness.

But to return from this degression to the work of the evening.

About 8 P. M., several dark objects, enveloped in dense smoke, could be seen moving down the river. They were the Benton, Carondelet, Pittsburgh, Mound City and Louisville, with several transports in company. No sooner had the leading vessel, the Benton come within range of the upper rebel batteries, than bright flashes were seen, and the sound of flying shot and shell again awoke the still evening echoes. The Lafayette now resumed firing again with her Parrotts, to divest or draw the rebel fire, but failed to attract any share of attention to herself. The rebels had more important and desirable objects to fire at. Sweeping past them were half a dozen army transports, with barges escorted by as many gunboats, and it was a vital matter to sink or destroy them if possible. And now, one after another of the rebel batteries which had been entirely silenced during the day, again, opened upon the passing flotilla with an energy almost surpassing their former efforts, and from half a dozen different points along the river they vomited flame, and sent shell and shot screaming after the Union vessels. They aimed particularly at the transports. The whole fleet, though each received some of the enemy's missiles, passed by unscathed. One man was killed on board of the Mound City by a sharpshooter from the shore, who fired into her port. This was the only serious casualty which occurred during the sharp cannonade.

The Lafayette now turned and ran down past the batteries, to join her companions below. On the way she received attention from each of the batteries in turn, which poured in a heavy fire. Their shot, however, either passed harmlessly overhead, scattering a few splinters from the light work, ventilating the smoke-pipes, smashing the harmless boats which hung at the davits, or glancing like peas from the well-clad armor of the good craft. It is safe to affirm that few under her casemates felt particular concern for their safety. The experience of the five hours' hard fighting during the day had allayed all nervousness among the men. They smiled and cracked jokes at the impotent efforts of the adversary, as she went by shaking the rebel shot from her sides, as pebbles glance from the back of a crocodile.

At 10:30 P. M. all the gunboats and transports were past the batteries, and had rounded to at a plantation on the Louisiania side, three miles below. The name of the owner is DISHAROON. The result of this last two hour's feeling of the rebel batteries raised queries in some minds, which ran thus: Did we silence the batteries? If so, why didn't they keep silent? What part, if any, were the troops to act in the day's programme? Did they act it, or didn't they; and, if not, who's to blame? Have we thrown away the advantages gained by five hours' hard fighting, and have we the same work to do over again? These and similar absurd questions I have heard propounded by persons heretofore considered sane.

The guns in the rebel batteries were manned almost wholly by negroes, a single white man, or perhaps two, directing operations. There is no mistake on this point. The writer was near enough to the batteries for him to observe from time to time the color of the rebel gunners. Many others—all who took any notice—concur in this.

There were, according to the account of a deserter who came in last night, only nine guns in the rebel batteries. He does not include the field artillery in use. They are, he says, two 7-inch rifles, (probably old thirty-two's rifled and reinforced) 68-pounders; 12 or 20-pound Parrotts, and other lighter pieces. Their practice was good upon the average, though if every shot, or one-half, which they fired, had taken effect in vital parts of the vessel, they would have destroyed every gunboat in the fleet. The turtles behaved, or rather were handled admirably. Capt. HALL, of the Pittsburgh, after fighting down stream both head and broadside guns, returned up opposite to the most active battery, where he laid his vessel alongside the bank and fought broadside on until the rebels shrunk appalled under cover, or were swept from their guns. The Mound City, Capt. WILSON; Carondelet, Capt. MURPHY, and Louisville, Capt. OWENS, each selected one or the other of the batteries, and pounded away at it most effectively. Toward the latter part of the fight they steamed first off then on shore, fighting alternately their bow and stern guns. During the heat of the action, Capt. MURPHY could be seen, glass in hand, walking the deck of the Carondelet in his shirt sleeves, watching the effect of his guns. He attracted general attention by his coolness and intrepidity. Capts. GREER, HALL, WILSON, WALKE, SHIRK, of the Tuscumbia, OWENS, all exhibited unshrinking courage and the most admirable tact in the management of their vessels. The plans of the Admiral were carried out as far as it was possible to execute them. Some were inclined to criticise the Tuscumbia for approaching so near to the upper batteries. For a long time she was within short rifle range. Her hog chains were all shot away save one; two shells exploded in her engine-room, breaking a cam of one engine, and shot passed through and through her wheel houses and light wooden quarters. Her hurricane deck was badly shattered by shell and shot, which glanced upward from her casemates. One shell entered the corner of the centre port, where the port-lid was incautiously shut too far by and exploded inside, killing five men at the midship gun, and seriously wounding three or four others. Lieut. of Marines, SAMUEL BAGLEY, of Company D, Twenty-ninth Illinois, was killed in the after casemate by a round shot which passed through the starboard wheel-house.

The names of the others killed on the Tuscumbia are: Henry Souquet, (of Havre, France,) Frank Adams, Wm. H. Wright, John Manly.

On the Benton the Admiral had a very narrow escape. One shot entered a broadside port, killing six men of one gun's crew, and wounding several others. Another shot passed so near the Admiral that the wind of it knocked him down. He fell into the arms of Capt. GREER, who was standing near him at the instant. He was not injured.

The Pittsburgh was so unfortunate as to lose about half of one gun's crew by a shot which passed through her casemate. Several were also wounded. The old Carondelet, the hero of so many fights, escaped with but slight injuries, and she had no one killed or wounded on board. She was fought with great skill and tact throughout.

The dead from the Benton and Pittsburgh were buried on Wednesday evening. Those of the Tuscumbia were buried on Thursday at DISHAROON's plantation, from which the troops were embarked.

The Tuscumbia is temporarily crippled, and she will have to be hauled out or laid ashore for repairs. She is the only gunboat which received any serious damage, and this has resulted more from the carrying away of her hog chains, which sustained her wheel guards, than from any injury from direct shots. Her fate may well suggest the question whether it is worth while to construct a gunboat so that the severing of a few iron rods by chance shots will let the whole vessel down like a broken wagon.

LATE FROM THE RICHMOND PAPERS.

Gen. Lee's Announcement of the Death of Stonewall Jackson.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Wednesday, May 13.

The following letter and order is published in the Richmond Sentinel:

CHANCELLORSVILLE, May 4.

To Lieut.-Gen. T. J. Jackson:

GENERAL: I have just received your note informing me that you were wounded. I cannot express my regret at the occurrence. Could I have directed events, I should have chosen for the good of the country to have been disabled in your stead. I congratulate you upon the victory, which is due to your skill and energy. Most truly yours,

R. E. LEE, General.

HEADQUARTERS, NORTHERN VIRGINIA,
MAY 11, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 61.—With deep grief the Commanding General announces to the army the death of Lieut.-Gen. T. J. JACKSON, who expired on the 10th inst., at 3:15 P. M. The daring skill and energy of this great and good soldier, by the decree of an all-wise Providence, are now lost to us; but while we mourn his death, we feel that his spirit still lives, and will inspire the whole army with his indomitable courage and unshaken confidence in God as our hope and strength. Let his name be a watchword for his corps, who have followed him to victory on so many fields. Let the officers and soldiers imitate his invincible determination to do everything in the defence of our beloved country.

(Signed,) R. E. LEE, General.

Removing the Wounded—An Interview with Gen. Barksdale—The Bridges Destroyed by Gen. Stoneman Temporarily Repaired—A Heavy Loss Admitted by the Rebels—Gen. A. P. Hill in Command of Stonewall Jackson's Division—The Mutinous Members of the Twentieth New-York.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Monday, May 11, 1863.

Yesterday noon, in accordance with a previous arrangement, a large number of ambulances repaired to the Lacey House for the purpose of conveying the wounded who should be brought across to the various hospitals. The enemy had agreed to send them over at 12 o'clock. Not appearing, Lieut MARSH, of the Engineers, and Lieut. WOOD, of the ambulance train, crossed over and held an interview with Gen. BARKSDALE, of Mississippi, Commander at the place, who informed them that he had between 1,500 and 1,600 of our wounded between Fredericksburgh and Banks' Ford, and that owing to the constant use of their ambulances to convey away their own wounded, a delay must necessarily take place in getting ours down to the river's bank. Eighty, however, he stated, would be brought down in the course of the day. Drs. JAYNES and CHANDLER, of the Vermont brigade, were sent on Friday to Banks' Ford, where they have received 270 men and two officers. Two surgeons and fifteen nurses have been sent across the river at that point to administer to the wants of the wounded. Capt. J. C. KENDALL, of Co. B, Twenty-first New-Jersey, was sent over yesterday, being the first one of our men paroled. After being wounded in the fierce battle at Salem Heights, he was conveyed to a hospital and his right leg amputated below the knee by the surgeon of the Fifty-fourth North Carolina. He informs me that our wounded are kindly provided for, receiving equal care with the rebel wounded. The surgeons have plenty of chloroform and other medicines, with the exception of whisky, which gave out at the hospital on Thursday. Confined at the same hospital with him were the rebel Gen. HOKE, wounded in the arm, and Col. McDOWELL, of the Fifty-fourth North Carolina, who died Saturday afternoon. The bridges destroyed by Gen. STONEMAN have been rebuilt temporarily, and Friday evening two trains of their wounded left for Richmond. Capt. KENDALL says that the first interrogatory put to him by nearly every rebel he conversed with was, "Who are you all going to put in now?" Gen. HOOKER having been defeated. Capt. KENDALL is at the Lacey House, doing well. Corp. C. KEEGAN, of the same company, who was taken prisoner, was paroled with and allowed to accompany him.

Squads of rebels were scattered along the river in front of the city. Just before noon a guard was stationed in order to keep the soldiers back from that bank. Among the numerous officers watching operations from this side of the river was Gen. MEAGHER, accompanied by one or two members of his Staff. The Thirteenth Mississippi is the only regiment now stationed in the city. The rebels claim that we could never have stormed the Heights had we not "advanced under a flag of truce, for the purpose of burying our dead, and then treacherously fired upon them." Of course, there is no truth in this, since we had no dead to bury at that time in the day.

It is generally admitted by the rebel officers that their army has suffered a heavy loss. Said one last evening, "We have lost more men than McCLELLAN ever caused us to lose, and yet he is your only General that we feel afraid of." The wounding of Stonewall JACKSON will prove a severe blow to them. He was shot (accidentally, they claim, by his own men) in the right hand and left arm, which was amputated on Sunday a week ago. During his absence from the army, having gone to the house of a friend, Gen. A. P. HILL takes command of his corps.

With the exception of some few conveyed to Richmond, the prisoners taken from us are confined at Guineas Station, some ten or fifteen miles below Fredericksburgh, to the number, they claim, of 5,000. Two hundred and fifty of NEILL's brigade, HOWE's division, were marched over the battle-field to this point on Tuesday. The rebels are desirous of effecting an immediate exchange. They complain that our authorities have not sent our Surgeons to take care of our wounded. There is apparently some plausibility in this complaint.

Gen. LEE in person accompanied the flanking force which got in our rear on Monday morning above Fredericksburgh. Yesterday Gen. BUTTERFIELD sent the NEW-YORK TIMES of Wednesday and Thursday to Gen. BARKSDALE with his compliments.

The Richmond papers of Friday and Saturday have been received here. The Sentinel, of Friday, says that Gen. HOOKER took advantage of the furious storm of Wednesday evening and "run." The Examiner, of the same date, declares that had Gen. Hooker been content to have held the Fredericksburgh Heights and his position on the left, Gen. Lee must have fallen back defeated. A glorious victory was, indeed, just within our grasp.

The Whig, of Saturday, confirms the death of VAN DORN, who died at Spring Hill, Tenn., on the 7th inst. It makes no reference to the cause or manner of his ignominious exit.

In the Whig's list of casualties are the names of Col. F. MALLORY and Major SAUNDERS, of the Fifty-fifth Virginia regiment, killed; Lieut.-Col. H. S. CHRISTON, of the same regiment, and Col. PHILIP COOK, Fourth Georgia, wounded. It also mentions that Col. McMERNEFFE, reebl, is to be tried for the murder of Dr. NEWBERRY. A lengthy editorial, headed "LEE and JACKSON," dilates upon the victories of these Generals.

You will observe that the inclosed copy of the Examiner foots up the rebel loss as follows:

Wounded, 7,000; killed, 900; missing, 1,200; total, 9,100.

To my certain knowledge, we have captured, and now have in our possession, over 4,300 prisoners. So much for rebel estimates. Their loss will fully equal ours. There can be no question as to this.

Services were held in the Episcopal Church at Fredericksburgh yesterday. A theatre is to be opened in the place on Wednesday.

Col. BROWN, of the Thirty-sixth New-York, wounded in the right thigh, is at Potomac Creek, and was doing well on Saturday.

Lieut. FRANK CROSBY, a nephew of Professor HOWARD CROSBY, was killed at his battery, in the fight of Sunday evening, at Salem Heights. The last words he said were "Tell mother I die happy."

There were but two out of 43 members in Capt. TYLER's Company, Thirty-third New-York, who were not wounded or hit in their clothes. The Captain's overcoat was perforated by a dozen bullets in the charge on the Heights, but, strange to say, he escaped unhurt.

Last evening, the sentence of the 121 men, including two Sergeants, of the Twentieth New-York volunteers, who stacked their arms a week ago Wednesday, was read to the various commands at dress parade. They are to forfeit all pay now or becoming due them, be dishonorably discharged from the service, and serve at hard labor on Government works during the time the war continues. The following are the names of the wounded soldiers who were sent across the river from Fredericksburgh on Saturday, after being paroled:

Alfred Dish, Co. E, 20th New-York—leg, slight.
H. M. Crain, Co. F, 26th New-York—right foot, severe.
Jas. Carner, Co. G, 21st New-Jersey—neck.
Capt. Kendall, Co. B, 21st New-Jersey—shoulder and leg.
J. M. Sprague, Co. I, 33d New-York—right leg.
Edward Read, Co. G, 20th New-York—both legs.
Sergt. Julius Roumerle, Co. G, 20th New-York—right foot.
Sergt. Joseph Keef, Co. D, 5th Connecticut.
F. Brankerman, Co. F, 21st N. J.—right knee.
F. Lange, Co. A, 20th New-York—left leg.
Robert Taber, Co. K, 20th New-York—leg.
Louis Dhug, Co. K, 20th New-York—finger.
H. Louis, Co. A, 33d New-York.
Chas. Wordruff, Co. B, 26th N. J.—shoulder.
Peter King, Co. B, 5th Vermont—right thigh.
Mike Ebert, Co. B, 33d New-York—right thigh.
John F. Guschuyller, Co. B, 20th New-York—leg.

THE WAR IN TENNESSEE.

Defeat of Rebel Cavalry.

NASHVILLE, Wednesday, May 13.

A party of about fifty rebels, mounted, between Woodbury and Franklin, Ky., coming toward the railroad, were met by a detachment of National troops sent out from Franklin, who defeated the rebels. Five were reported killed, and several wounded. The National force was still pursuing at the time the train left, at 11. A rebel Major, Surgeon and four Lieutenants arrived from the front, with six ambulance loads of wounded rebels.

THE HARBOR DEFENCE COMMISSIONERS—THE DEMOCRATIC GENERAL COMMITTEE.

ALBANY, Wednesday, May 13.

The Harbor Defence Commission has organized by the selection of Gov. SEYMOUR, as President, and Gen. ISAAC VANDERPOOL, as Engineer-in-Chief. No precise course of action has yet been determined on.

The Democratic General Committee has called a meeting of citizens for Saturday to express indignation at the arrest and sentence of VALLANDIGHAM, and to protest against their consummation.

Analysis of Hooker's Campaign.

From Wilkes' Spirit of the Times.

The events of the week, since we last went to press, have made a revelation of the virulence and scope of faction, which goes far to account for the full prolongation of the war, and the want of unanimity and fixed purpose in the Government.

A covert treason, uniting with political rivalries and smouldering malice, has so multiplied itself, that it is capable, by sudden and concerted raids on public sentiment, to cut it from its true supports, and alarm it into temporary outcries against its soundest measures and its worthiest servants. This treacherous strategy has been practiced upon the simplicity of the general public at every Federal failure in the war; but on no occasion has it been exhibited with such malignant and such marked effect, as against Gen. HOOKER for his recent retirement across the Rappahannock. Long watching for his ruin, those whose policy it has been to stifle patriotism and paralyze our armies, have sprung at his throat at the first problem in his bold career, and by the very impetuosity of their assault, have carried along with them a whirl of the surrounding atmosphere. Nay, even well intentioned journalists, who were disposed with loyal hopefulness to regard him as a NAPOLEON, have suffered themselves to be staggered with the force of vicious clamor, and have sunk to timorous apprehensions, puerile references, or didactic theories. Chief among these is a pragmatic Dutchman, who, eager for anything that will shield his flying countrymen from the disgrace of having betrayed our manœuvres in the fight of Chancellorsville, parades the theories of war for the plan of a campaign, by way of fixing a verdict against the contingencies of a single action. He knows of nothing, this EMIL SCHALK, but "interior lines," as if there were no independent operations, no tangents, and no eccentricities in war. The admiration of this unpracticed pedagogue is altogether for the rebels—his praise entirely for LEE. And we are sorry to see the loyal journals, which gave his trite rudiments a kindly notice, reprinting his wholesale errors, and giving publicity to his false statements without the slightest protest. We are reminded by these German criticisms, of the severe handling which the Dutch theorists always gave NAPOLEON, and particularly of the scene which took place between him and the Austrian Gen. MACK. By a series of masterly victories and marches, BONAPARTE had finished his Italian campaign in the neighborhood of Vienna, and MACK, a very great General among the Austrians, was his prisoner. "What do you think of this young French commander?" said NAPOLEON to MACK, who did not yet know his conqueror. The veteran looked at his youthful questioner for a moment, and then, with a supercilious smile, replied, "What do I think of him? Why, he is constantly perpetrating the greatest of absurdities. At one time he is assailing our right flank, when he should be attacking us upon our left; and again he is miles away in one quarter, when he should be operating vigorously in another. In short, he conforms to no theory—he obeys no rule. Ah, such invasions of the art of war, (and here the old veteran shook his head very profoundly,) such invasions of the art of war are not to be tolerated!" The discomfited enemy at Richmond reason in the same way in regard to Gen. HOOKER. Finding he had cut their communications, and placed that lair of treason, and all within it, at the mercy of the first Federal squad that might choose to march in from the Peninsula—nay, at the mercy of HOOKER's own infantry, but for the forbidding fury of the rising river—they denounce him as a "reckless gambler, from whom any desperate adventure may hourly be expected." They are not far wrong, and unless we are much mistaken in the character of the soldier they malign, he may be expected in Richmond at any hour during the next two weeks.

We have never claimed that HOOKER was a NAPOLEON, as have those impressible historians whose fortitude cannot endure an unexpected fall of rain; but we have always thought he was a brave and able General. We felt he had proved as much as that by his exploits in Mexico, and by the more recent career which wound up so superbly at Antietam; but we are now persuaded, from the manner in which he has opened this year's campaign, and driven LEE from his intrenchments, that he will soon prove himself the ablest soldier of the age.

Already his exploits by far excel those of any General in our service, while the single act of taking his vast army, and, at one huge bound, planting it in the rear of Fredericksburgh, thus cutting LEE's army virtually adrift, is worth all the military exploits that have been performed during the present war, put together. All winter, HOOKER lay with his legions directly under the eye of the most boasted tactician of the foe. Gen. LEE, perfectly acquainted with his enterprising character, knew that he would endeavor to move at the first opportunity, but he declared Fredericksburgh to be impregnable, and never once dreamed of being visited with the disgrace of having that position turned. Least of all did he expect that the Yankee Chief before him, who lay so torpid in the surrounding mud, would be the man to do it, and to wake him up some fine morning with the tidings that the martial host at Falmouth was lifted from the meadow before him, and planted directly on his flank. He had nothing to do but to watch against such a danger; while HOOKER required a supreme audacity to even contemplate the infliction of it. While, however, the Federal commander was thus anchored to the sodden earth, his mind was busy with his plans, and hourly he was engaged in preparations for their demonstration. His first duty was to reorganize the army and restore its spirit from the demoralization consequent on the previous attack on Fredericksburgh; his next to obtain accurate survey of the ground to be operated on, and his last to accustom his soldiers to "the habit of victory," as he happily expressed it, by cavalry and infantry expeditions against the several fords. Having thus lifted the temper of his troops almost to the sanguine measure of his own, he sent away an army corps to the Peninsula, as being in excess of what he needed; and when subsequently, the question of withdrawing the two years' regiments was agitated, he quietly remarked that, "though they were fine soldiers, the Army of the Potomac was large enough, without them, to go where it pleased." This sublime confidence was insensibly communicated to the soldiers, and inspired them for efforts which would be sure to render them almost invincible.

The most difficult portion of the task which HOOKER had assumed, in order to render his strategy decisive, was that which comprehended a wide cavalry raid—a raid, which, simultaneously with his own advance, should make a vast circuit round the enemy's entire rear, and so destroy his communications and avenues of retreat, as to oblige him to leave his fortifications and give us battle on our own chosen ground. This important task he confided to the charge of STONEMAN, whom he had recently selected for his Chief of Cavalry; but we speak advisedly, when we say, that the whole raid, its circuit, detail and philosophy, was projected and mapped out by Gen. HOOKER himself. We had about 12,000 cavalry; the force allowed STONEMAN for his exploit, was perhaps more than half that number. Enough remained for PLEASANTON, in the tangled and wooded country which HOOKER had selected for his operations, to perform all the duties required by the army, when it had taken its position; nay, more than could be well managed there—as it was found when that position was acquired. The whole plan being at last matured, and all those preliminary enterprises finished which feel the path previous to the leap, the season arrived for the experiment to be made. Restive for his opportunity, the Federal commander, snatching at the first hours of dry weather, sent STONEMAN off as early as the 13th of April; but unexpected and unseasonable rains caught him on his road and delayed the whole operation full fifteen days. Meanwhile LEE, misled by reports which HOOKER had the art to send him, rated our whole force at barely fifty thousand, regarding them as utterly demoralized, and had even ordered STUART to get up a raid which shonld scare us in our lines.

At length the heavens relaxed, and prompt with the first gleam of sunshine, the whole army (27th April) was set in motion for its gigantic but complicated task. The object, of course, was to get safely across the river without being seen; but as the enemy were in force on the other side, and were guarding every ford, it was necessary not only to make him distribute his strength, but to mislead him from the true point where we intended to fling over our main body. To effect this object, and for the purpose of confusing the enemy completely, HOOKER decided to make demonstrations at five crossing places, the extreme ones being over thirty miles apart. To Kelly's Ford, which was twenty-five miles to the north, he sent STONEMAN's cavalry; to the far South he sent one corps, under REYNOLDS; just below the front of the city he crossed two others, while toward the United States Ford he threatened with a fourth. Having thus occupied the attention of the enemy, he took three corps to himself, and set out rapidly for Kelly's Ford. Arriving there on the 28th, he let STONEMAN loose, and then taking a more southward bend, hurried on in rapid march himself. While he is thus briskly and perilously pressing forward to the coveted position, the attention of LEE has been riveted by the delusive evolutions in the front, and fascinated, moreover, by the still more threatening and equally misleading demonstrations at the far distant lower ford, he dispatched to that threatened quarter the formidable JACKSON with 40,000 men. The admirable art by which this telling misdirection of the Confederate force was effected, may be to some degree appreciated by the following extracts from the able letter of MR. SWINTON, which was published in the TIMES:

"Every one was rubbing his eyes, and asking where is the army? No one could tell. Here was a column moving up, another moving down, and the column that was up yesterday, proves to be down to-day. I confess I was heartily glad of the general bewilderment, though it was rather puzzling for a correspondent to observe movements along a line twenty-five or thirty miles in length. In this case, it was the spectators of the great game of chess that were blindfolded. The master player alone had his eyes open.

* * * * * * *

Thus far, it is to be noticed that but one division of each of the two army corps had been sent across the river—the remaining four divisions stayed on the other side. But they were not idle. They were put in motion on the hill-slope on one side of the river, and in plain view of the enemy were marched along the crest of the ridge and down, as though to the crossing. But instead of crossing, they were quietly drawn up back through a gully, round the rear of the ridge, and round again on its top. They made the appearance of an army of at least a hundred thousand men, and must have presented the appearance of a massing on our side, preparatory to a passage of the river under cover of the night. The same 'circussing' was performed by the artillery, the same by the wagon trains.

Was this a ruse de guerre? It could hardly be anything else—and yet to any one but a careful observer, even on our side, the deception could not have been detected."

Our readers need not be told that this skillful strategy was entirely successful, and that, taking the advantage of the diversion thus effected in his favor, HOOKER, on the morning of the 29th, had planted himself, with his three corps directly in the rear of the rebels, thus blocking up the road to Gordonsville, and domineering their only other line—the rail to Richmond. LEE had been thoroughly outgeneraled; the heights of Fredericksburgh, which the Confederates had vauntingly declared (and Europe sneeringly rechoed) to be impregnable, were "turned," and rendered valuless in the hands of their possessors. In short, they were virtually captured, and that merely by a march of less than forty miles, which had not cost us a single man, and which had caught STUART's engineers, and nipped his raid by taking them prisoners to our camp.

We do not believe that history shows a more stupendous and thoroughly brilliant military movement. To use again the words of the writer in the TIMES: "We remember but one movement of precisely the same kind. It was the operation of Prince EUGENE against the French, who held the line of the Adige. EUGENE, by a series of skillful manœuvres, induced the French commander to scatter his troops along the line of the river; then, by dexterous feints, he entirely deceived his adversary as to the direction of his march, and the latter was suddenly surprised with the news that the line of the Adige was forced, and a detachment of his forces wholly routed at Carpi."

Intercepted dispatches soon proved that the surprise of LEE had been complete; and well might HOOKER, when fixed in his firm triangle at Chancellorsville, complacently assure his Staff that "the rebel army was the legitimate property of the Army of the Potomac." Nothing could budge him from that position, for his three corps alone were ample to sustain it, (should they stand firm,) while nothing could save the enemy from ruin but a revisitation of the deluge in sufficient volume to imperil our communications. This was the only thing which mortal generalship could not provide against, but of even this danger HOOKER had bethought him, for he stated before starting that, should such calamity befall him, he would forego his advantages, whatever they might be, and recross, rather than imperil the fate of the entire army. Aside from the two dangers we have named, however, his military problem was quite perfect; not a single mistake had been made; and he felt justified in heightening the spirit of the troops, by issuing the following order. It is of a piece with the audacious confidence of NAPOLEON on the plateau of Rivoli, when pointing to the troops of LUSIGNAN, who were threatening his rear, while he was engaged with another army in his front, he uttered, "They are ours!" The cry was taken up by the French soldiers, and they kept shouting it till they had secured the victory; and HOOKER's bulletin was hailed with an equal enthusiasm by the till then puzzled corps of our army, which he had left in the face of Fredericksburgh, as well as by the troops around him:

"It is with heartfelt satisfaction that the General Commanding announces to the army that the operations of the last three days have determined that our enemy must ingloriously fly, or come out from behind his defences, and give us battle on our own ground, where certain destruction awaits him."

What commander will say that this was not justified under the circumstances? Or who that was present, will deny that it added to the effective enthusiasm of his soldiers?

Everything, therefore, had been a sublimely demonstrated triumph, till that moment. Let us see if the problem will unfold in like manner to the end. On the following day, Gen. HOOKER was joined by another corps, while still another was en route to his position, leaving but two corps, under SEDGWICK, in front of Fredericksburgh, to prevent the enemy from crossing, in his desperation, to our weakened side. One of these corps of SEDGWICK's was at the old camp, near Falmouth, and the other a little below Fredericksburgh, on the rebel shore, with means of returning to the Falmouth side, by bridges of pontoons. The taking of the heights, by SEDGWICK's corps, was no part of HOOKER's plan. Its specific purpose was simply to protect the crossing of the enemy to Falmouth, as was proven by the half willing permission which HOOKER gave when SEDGWICK wanted to assail them—that he might do so, if he could effect the operation without serious loss. He, doubtless, felt that, though the heights were already virtually captured, their occupation would pay, if won, at a low rate, for the proof it would make to our soldiers, of the absoluteness of our position. As to the assumption that the troops of SEDGWICK could be of any service to him at Chancellorsville, it is simply absurd, as he had enough there, twice over, to maintain his position, and more than could possibly be fought, until the enemy should be so broken by defeat they could be rendered useful in wider operations, to envelop his straggling columns. This was HOOKER's plan, and we have shown what were his calculations and reliances. LEE understood his peril in a moment, and he prepared to make a most desperate effort to plunge through our lines and seize the road to Gordonsville. Apprised by our movements of the Monday previous, that we intended to attack him somewhere, he had telegraphed to LONGSTREET to abandon his operations against PECK, and had also drawn largely upon Richmond, then filled with troops, which had been released by our premature and ineffective operations against Charleston. Gen. HOOKER, as we know, had some weeks before requested to be allowed to initiate the military operations of the Spring, in order that his troops might not be demoralized by others' failures, and the flushed enemy released to concentrate in force on him. This request, however, not having prevailed, LEE had been enabled to group a mighty host together, ere STONEMAN had fairly got to work. Thus, indeed, the flower, if not the whole of the really effective military force of the Confederacy, were grimly gathered on the fearful heights of Fredericksburgh.

On Thursday, the 30th April, the rebels found that their communications with Richmond were rapidly being cut, and, springing to their feet, thundering reconnoissances (responded to by ours) were poured along our lines. These feelers were again put out by both armies on the following day, and, on the 2d of May, the desperate enemy, having thus ascertained his true condition, massed two corps under the indomitable JACKSON, and prepared to plunge them in column against our right wing. As they streamed diagonally before our front, HOOKER detected LEE's intention, and calling upon the Third corps, he launched it against the centre of the Confederate column, and thus smiting it in two, commenced an assault upon its broken rear. Our troops composing the right wing, had but to firmly withstand the plunge of JACKSON for ten minutes, when he would have been obliged to retire from the assault, and turn back to defend his rear—a movement that would have exposed him grievously, and doubtless have resulted in the general flight of the whole rebel army. At this moment, however, when victory was within HOOKER's grasp, and the promise of his bulletin of Wednesday almost fulfilled, the Eleventh army corps, composed almost entirely of Germans, who stood in secure earthworks at the head of our right wing, unaccountably flung down their arms, and fled, without having either fired or received a shot. The moment was critical as well as shameful in the last degree; but, with the rapidity of decision which stamps the great commander, HOOKER recalled the Third corps, so that it might not be cast away, and dispatched against the head of the victorious Confederates, the iron division of Gen. BERRY, which he had himself educated during the campaign of 1862. The progress of the enemy was thus sternly stayed; nevertheless, he had doubled a portion of our line, and when the action closed, lay, half turning and threatening our right flank. HOOKER thoroughly appreciated this alarming situation, and though it was no part of his programme to assume the offensive, (certainly not before he heard from STONEMAN,) he was forced to forego his steadily inactive policy, and project a night attack in order to extricate a portion of the Third corps, and reconstruct his line. He accordingly assailed the enemy with great violence at midnight, and succeeded, not only in recovering his misplaced divisions, but in forming a new line, which kept the whole of the enemy still upon his front.

But it was not the position of the day before; and mortified and saddened at a calamity which it would have been disgraceful for a General to have anticipated, he was forced to patiently abide a further opportunity to effect the victory which he was still sure remained within his grasp.

On Monday morning the baffled enemy, seeing inevitable starvation and defeat before him, attacked in great force again, and persisted bitterly for several hours; but, though he succeeded in pressing us backward for about a mile, he failed to effect any derangement of our lines. Turning then upon SEDGWICK, (who having been driven with his small force from the heights by the Confederates who were advancing from the South, had imprudently descended inward from them toward LEE's rear, instead of falling back to his old position on the river's bank,) LEE caught him right between two converging forces, and obliged him to escape by the road toward Banks' Ford with very heavy loss. This error of position—an error springing from a noble thirst for battle—will, we think, be found to have been a fault of SEDGWICK's own, and we have but to refer to the style of HOOKER's permission when he allowed him to assail the heights, and his answer to the President when asked if we had lost them, to establish that to our satisfaction: "I am told that the enemy have retaken the heights of Fredericksburgh?" said the President. "It is so reported to me, but it is a matter of no consequence," was HOOKER's tranquil answer. While reading it, we are inevitably reduced to the conclusion that he fancied, at that time, that SEDGWICK had simply fallen back to the margin of the Rappahannock, in his appointed attitude of observation, or passed toward him by the way of Banks' Ford.

It is impossible for any, but an utter snake, to forbear admiring the superb self-reliance of the Federal commander, in his answer to the President; or any but a poisoned traitor to deny, that regardless of the loss of the heights, and utterly regardless of the raid of STONEMAN, HOOKER was master of the situation on the Rapidan, and could not be dislodged by any Confederate power. The enemy, by his terrific plunges, by his frightful losses, by the wounding of JACKSON and other casualties, were utterly exhausted; while it is in hostile and malignant proof, that HOOKER had not been called upon to employ more than one-third his force. While thus securely fixed, however, and while apparently nothing but a superhuman power could extricate the Confederate army from his gripe, the heavens opened, and a rain set in, such as the season had not known before. The angry streams rose with the deluge, and presently the volume of the Rappahannock spread so wide, as to overflow its banks. The furious current tore so madly against our half-drowned pontoons, that they threatened to yield at every instance, and by parting from the shore to go endwise down the stream. Of the eight days' provisions with which we had started, our men had barely two days rations left, and if our bridges failed us here, as they already had in two places on our own side, the whole army would be severed from its communications, and Commander-in-Chief, as well as soldiers, must all surrender in a body. Under these circumstances, and consulting prudence; nay, yielding to the sternest dictates of necessity, HOOKER was forced sorrowfully to give the order to recross.

It is for this prudent and inevitable act, effected like the original crossing, absolutely without loss, that the finest soldier in this country has been disparaged by unthinking people, and covered by the malicious with measureless slander and abuse. Already, however, the public have detected the motive of this sudden outcry, and trace it jointly to traitors, and to the factious supporters of a chieftain who never effected a successful movement in his life, and who "could not recollect" whether or no he hid himself away on a gunboat, while the battle was raging hard by at Malvern Hill.

But thanks to "the sober second thought," the public can understand the matter now, and while they recognize all the present distraction of the rebels between Fredericksburgh and Richmond, as the result of HOOKER's seven days' effort, they behold him recovered from his temporary retrogade, and ready again to take the road to Richmond. That he will reach there a victor, we have but little doubt; but if he falls in the attempt, the page of history cannot be obliterated of the firm imprint he has made upon it; while the fact that he has twice crossed a rapid river with a hundred thousand men, in the face of a powerful enemy, without loss, will require the unbiased critic to recognize him as the first General of the age. To another verdict on the face of the same record, do we leave those base maligners who would accuse his plans with the result of the flight of the Eleventh corps, and who are guilty of the shameless assumption that the presence of STONEMAN's cavalry on that occasion (retrieved, as it was, by BERRY's charge and the fight of Sunday night,) would have been more than equivalent to the achievements of the raid which still leaves Richmond comparatively at our mercy. The proof is, that not even PLEASANTON's cavalry could be put to service in that exigency. The main use of cavalry upon the battle-field is to annoy and cut to pieces a flying enemy. It dare not attack infantry in form, and if flying troops which are suffering under their attacks can but rally and take position in square, the cavalry must wheel and get away as fast as possible. On the occasion of the flight of the Eleventh corps, it was unfortunately our own men who were flying and dispersed, while JACKSON's soldiers were in steady, bristling column.

Of like fallacy is the charge of SCHALK, that HOOKER moved too slow to his position. The fact is, that the cavalry scouts which preceded him, even as far as Spotsylvania, returned with the news that the enemy could not possibly anticipate him on the field at Chancellorsville; while the crowning fact is, they were not ready to attack him there, till three days after he was intrenched in that position. Yet these savans presume to reason by the book, on the exigencies of a case known only to the instructed mind of the Commander in the field; and, while they hold themselves perfectly ready to sing hosannas to him should he win, they are equally ready to scream maledictions on his head should any of his bold adventures in the least miscarry. These gentry would have torn BONAPARTE to pieces with their beaks, for abandoning his communications with Mantua, to throw himself on the plateau of Rivoli in the centre of his foes, had he but failed, but having succeeded, they accredited him with a genius second only to the Deity. The truth is, they know nothing of their theme more than can be marked upon a blackboard, and when they talk of delivering mighty blows without taking mighty risks, they use the words only of idiots or children. To praise LEE for his superior operations, when he has been outgeneraled and driven from his stronghold, by the man who is maligned, is to speak with the tongue of an enemy or criminal.

Our final comment is, that the loyal public should be more wary hereafter of the clamors of the Copperheads, and when they find a soldier of JOE. HOOKER's stamp, we advise them to stick by him without wavering. After the Dutchmen of the Eleventh corps have not succeeded in betraying him to the enemy, no Dutchman need undertake to write him down. It is patent to the public, that the man who can manœuvre a hundred thousand troops during a period of nine days, so as to drive another hundred thousand troops from their "impregnable" fortresses and chosen attitude, is not to be disposed of, as a military genius, by all the writers in the universe. As for the army of the Potomac, to use the proud language of its General's last order, it is capable of being "the guardian of its own history and its own arms." G. W.

WEDNESDAY, May 13—P. M.

The price of Gold Coin is ½@¾ ℘ cent. firmer than yesterday afternoon. The rates of Exchange on London are 163½@164½ ℘ cent. The price of Money to the Stock Brokers, as the rule, is 6 ℘ cent., with exceptions as low as 5 and as high as 7 ℘ cent. There is no complaint among borrowers as to the supply at or within these rates, although the continued speculative excitement on the Railway Share List creates a large employment for Money on the Stock Exchange. The demand for United States Stock of the 5-20 year 6 ℘ cents, in this City to-day, amounts to $1,312,150, of which $950,000 was paid into the Treasury by the Loan Agents and $362,150 subscribed direct. The 6 ℘ cents of 1881 sold at 107¾ ℘ cent., and Treasury paper of all descriptions was in request, at the full rates of Tuesday, and in some instances at an advance of ¼@½ ℘ cent.

The Stock market is under a high degree of excitement this afternoon on Erie and the Western Railways, and on Canton Land and Pacific Mail Shares. Of the Pacific Mail, we hear of 7,000 Shares, at private sale, between the sessions of the Board, at 190 ℘ cent., including the quarterly dividend of 5 ℘ ceut. just declared. Later in the day the price advanced to 191@191½ ℘ cent. The Canton Land Shares, which dragged a few days ago at 30 ℘ cent., began to move early in the day, and at 4 o'clock this afternoon 37 ℘ cent. was quoted. There was a further rise of 2 ℘ cent. in Erie Common Shares, making 6½@7 ℘ cent. for the two days; Reading, 5 ℘ cent. up; Fort Wayne, 3 ℘ cent.; Northwest, 5 ℘ cent.; Illinois Central, 4@5 ℘ cent.; Mississippi and Missouri, 4 ℘ cent., and some others in the same proportion. Part of yesterday's 10 ℘ cent. rise on Prairie du Chien was lost at the morning Board, but recovered in the Afternoon. The Western Railway Bonds were equally firm, and on Northwest Seconds 5 ℘ cent. higher than yesterday. The Land Grants of the Mississippi and Missouri Road were also higher, and in large request. At the close of business the following prices were quoted, as compared with Tuesday night. The market closed buoyant. Heavy purchases of Canton were made at 38:

Undivided profits as above		1,047,969
Profits at present market rates on U. S. Securities, over		500,000
Equal to 16⅜ ℘ cent. on Capital		$1,547,969

The following are the explanatory remarks of the President and Cashier, submitted with the tabular statement, which were read to and approved by the meeting and directed to be published:

At the date of the last Report the amount of Suspended Debt was....$319,863 6.

Which during the year was considerably reduced by Receipts on Account, and the balance has been charged to Profit and Loss, leaving no Suspended Debt on the Books of the Bank, nor any Note or Bill due and under protest or unpaid. Further amounts will undoubtedly be hereafter realized to the credit of Profit and Loss, from the above claims which have been charged to that account.

The amount of Capital paid in at the date of the last report was	$9,148,480
Since which 1,453 Scrip Shares have been made full by the voluntary payment of $80 per Share	116,240
Making the present Capital	$9,264,720
Consisting of 90,809 full Shares, $100 paid	$9,080,900
9,191 Scrip Shares, $20 paid	183,820
Total	$9,264,720

The holders of Scrip Shares have the privilege of making them full Shares at any time, by the payment of the remaining $80 ℘ share, with interest thereon, from the date of last dividend to the date of such payment.

The present number of shareholders is 2,201.

Semi-Annual Dividends were declared in July and January last, being the forty-sixth and forty-seventh. The former was 3 ℘ cent., and the latter 3½ ℘ cent., free of Government Tax, the same having been paid by the Bank.

The Board of Directors have caused regular quarterly examinations of the Bank to be made by Committees of their own members, during the past year, the results of which have proved satisfactory, as usual.

Since the last Annual meeting two vacancies have occurred in the Board, by the resignations of ALEXANDER DUNCAN and PELATIAH PERIT. RICHARD W. WESTON has been appointed a director in place of STEPHEN WHITNEY, deceased. There are now four vacancies.

The shareholders were apprized in the annual statement in May last how the proceedings then stood which had been instituted by the Bank of the Commonwealth, of this City, claiming that Public Stocks of the United States held by them should be exempted from taxation.

In June last the Bank of Commerce procured a writ of certiorari, to remove the assessment against it by the Tax Commissioners, into the Supreme Court of the State of New-York. This case was argued, and judgment rendered in November following: that the United States Stocks held by the Bank, which were issued prior to the 25th of February, 1862, were subject to taxation, and that those issued after that date were not so subject. In December an appeal was taken from the above judgment to the Court of Appeals at Albany, which Court, Jan. 13, granted an order to take the case out of its course on the calendar, and it was accordingly argued on the 16th of the same month, and the judgment of the Supreme Court affirmed.

An appeal from this decision of the highest judicial tribunal of this State was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States. By great exertion of counsel, and the unusual facilities granted by the Courts at Albany and at Washington, in view of the magnitude of public and private interests involved, this case of this Bank against the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments for the City and County of New-York, in error to the Court of Appeals of the State of New-York, was heard (at the same time with the case of the Bank of the Commonwealth, involving the same question,) by the Supreme Court of the United States, at the December Term, 1862, and the judgment of the Court below was reversed in March following.

Mr. Justice NELSON delivered the opinion of the Court, which, it is understood, was unanimous. The power of Congress to borrow money upon the credit of the United States, free of any tax upon its exercise, would seem to be firmly and forever established by the highest judicial tribunal of the country. The opinion of counsel has been thus vindicated, that no taxation, by or under State authority, can be imposed upon United States securities, held by individuals, corporations or associations, within the United States.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN A. STEVENS, President.
HENRY F. VAIL, Cashier.

ROOFING.

READY ROOFING.

ROOFING READY to be nailed down.

ROOFING costing not half as much as tin.

ROOFING TWICE as durable as tin.

ROOFING not injured by heat or cold.

The READY ROOFING is made of the thickest fabric ever used for the purpose—manufactured solely by ourselves, and secured by patent—saturated with a durable water-proof composition, and put up in rolls ready for use—requiring no coating of cement after being nailed down, as all other composition roofing does.

GUTTA PERCHA CEMENT, for coating over tin roofs. Cheaper than oil paints, and far more durable.

Circulars containing full description and directions for application—also, samples of the READY ROOFING—sent by mail when required.

HOTELS.

BELLEVUE HOUSE,
NEWPORT, R. I.

I have the pleasure of informing my former patrons and friends that I have taken the above-named house in connection with Mr. Thos. W. Fletcher.

This house has been very recently furnished by the owners, in a manner superior to almost any in the country.

It has many advantages over any in Newport, being furnished with steam heating apparatus, gas and bells in every room.

It has always been the resort of the best class of visitors, and it will be the great object of the undersigned to keep this house so as to merit a continuance of the same.

The house will be open on the 16th of June.

Plans of the house and arrangements made at No. 140 5th-av., or by note addressed to me.

O. C. PUTNAM.

HEATH HOUSE, SCHOOLEY'S MOUNTAIN SPRINGS, N. J.—This large and elegant hotel, so widely and favorably known, will be opened on the 1st of June in excellent condition. It is reached via Morris and Essex Railroad, leaving foot of Cortlandt-st., New-York, at 8½ A. M. and 3½ P. M.; distance 65 miles. Rooms may now be engaged on reasonable terms. More particular information may be had by addressing the subscriber, or by calling on him Wednesday, between 12 and 1 o'clock, at the Astor House, New-York.
E. B. COLEMAN, Proprietor.

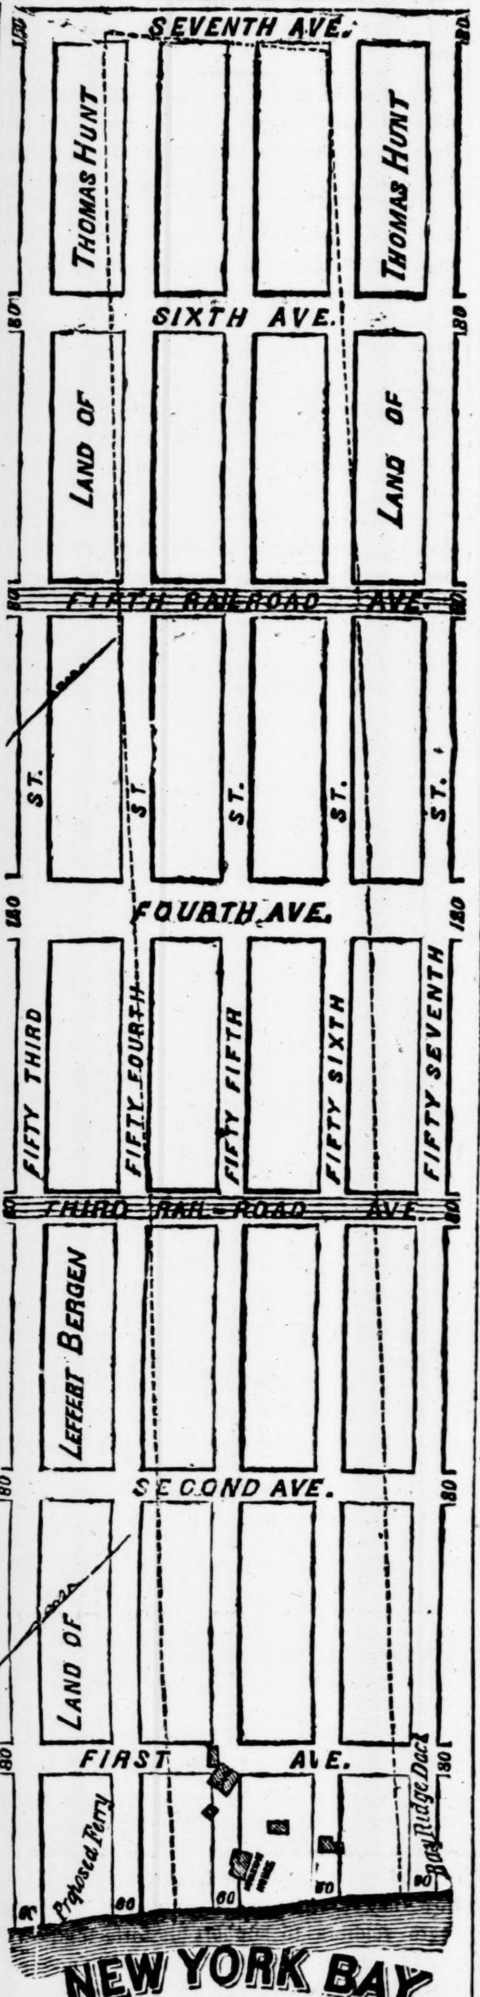
BAY VIEW PROPERTY
BROOKLYN
ESTATE OF THE LATE THEO'S BERGEN



THE ABOVE VALUABLE PROPERTY, belonging to the estate of the late THEODORUS BERGEN, (the title of which has been in the family over one hundred years,) will be sold at PUBLIC AUCTION by A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO. at the EXCHANGE SALESROOM, No. 111 Broadway, THURSDAY, May 28, 1863, at 12 o'clock M., by order of the executors. The tract comprises about 70 ACRES, or 850 LOTS, eligibly situated on NEW-YORK BAY, midway between Bay Ridge Dock and the new proposed ferry to New-York, having an extensive water front, with a magnificent view of New-York Bay and surroundings. The Greenwood and Bay Ridge Railroad cars pass through the property every five minutes. It is within 30 minutes' ride of all the ferries.

CAPITALISTS WILL DO WELL TO EXAMINE THE PROPERTY.

Two-thirds of the purchase money can remain on bond and mortgage.

For maps and particulars, apply at the Auctioneers' No. 77 Cedar-st., or of L. T. BERGEN, Executor, No. 82 Nassau-st., (Room No. 6,) New-York.

GREAT SALE OF LOTS AND CONTRACTS IN THE CITY OF CHICAGO, AT AUCTION—June 17, 1863.—The articles of Association of the CHICAGO LAND COMPANY require that the trust shall be closed, in the month of June, 1863, and that all the property and effects on hand at that time, belonging to the Association, shall be sold at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder, in the City of Chicago, on the third WEDNESDAY, the 17th day of June, 1863.

The undersigned, Trustee of the Chicago Land Company, will, therefore, on WEDNESDAY, the 17th day of June, 1863, offer for sale on the premises, in the City of Chicago:

749 lots in Sheffield's addition to Chicago.
686 lots in Elston addition, west side of North Branch.
382 lots in Elston addition, east side of North Branch.
67 lots in Wright's addition, west side of North Branch.
3 lots in original town Chicago.

Also mortgages, amply secured, amounting to about eleven thousand five hundred dollars.

Fifty-four contracts, covering 96 lots, on which there are owing an aggregate of about $100,000.

Of these lots 6,732 feet front on a spacious canal of 100 feet wide, now being excavated through the property.

And 4,509 feet front on the North Branch of the Chicago River.

The sale will be continued from day to day until all the property and effects of the Company are sold.

MAHLON D. OGDEN, Trustee.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

It is reported, via Cairo, that Gen. Grant has fought a severe battle at Clinton, ten miles from Jackson, Miss., and defeated the rebels. The fight is said to have lasted an entire day.

There is no late news from the Army of the Potomac this morning. At last accounts from the Rappahannock, the opposing armies were again facing each other on the opposite banks of the river.

A rebel telegram, a few days ago, announced that the National force advancing to the rear of Vicksburgh had been repulsed on the 6th inst., at one of the ferries on the Big Black River. A telegram was received in Washington yesterday from Gen. Grant, dated the 6th inst., stating that his force was then on the Big Black, but saying nothing about any repulse, or even an engagement.

Dispatches from Gen. Grant's army to the Western papers state that the most direct route from Milliken's Bend to Grand Gulf, and that now generally used, is across twelve miles of country to Richmond, La.; thence down a bayou on transports to Hard Times Landing, on the Mississippi, a few miles above the mouth of Big Black. This obviates the necessity of a wearisome trip of seventy miles by land, and enables the army to be provisioned at the present locality quite easily.

An order was received at headquarters in Louisville on Sunday from Gen. Burnside, instructing the military authorities to issue no passes south of that point to any persons, excepting those who are citizens and residing south of Louisville, unless permission is granted by Gen. Rosecrans.

Col. Straight's disaster in Georgia, according to a dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette, is attributed to his having been supplied with broken down and inferior animals at Nashville. He could not have been one hundred miles ahead of Forrest, as the rebels say, when Forrest commenced the pursuit, as rebel cavalry appeared on the northern bank of the Tennesse the next day after Col. Straight left the river. Dispatches from Col. Straight himself have been received as late as the evening after the fight at Blountsville, in which he reports he gave the rebels a severe defeat.

Letters from Port Royal, dated May 8, announce the departure of the Seventh Connecticut on an expedition to capture a rebel force which had been prowling around Seabrook Island. The rebels have a large battery at Legreeville, just the other side of Cole's Island, which adjoins Folly Island. This battery can just command the lower extremity of Folly Island. The other day the rebels opened with this battery upon what they supposed to be Gen. Vodges' headquarters, Their shots fell short, although within range; and the Pawnee replied vigorously to the hostile fire

From intercepted rebel letters, intended for citizens of Norfolk, it has been ascertained that the rebels intend making a raid with their new Merrimac between the middle of June and the 1st of July.

From gentlemen who passed through Pittsburgh on Monday, the Gazette learns that Col. Mulligan had fallen back to Moundsville, twelve miles below Wheeling, and that one wing of the rebel army had taken Middlebourne, Tyler County. The other wing was threatening Parkersburgh, and were reported but a short distance from that place. The rebels were running off all the cattle, stock, &c. Most of the able-bodied men of Wheeling had gone out with the militia, and a large number of the business houses were closed.

The Springfield (Ill.) Journal learns that about 800 rebel sympathizers, fully armed, met at Dobson's Prairie, about twelve miles from Marshall, in Clark County, on May 9, for the purpose of drill and parade. They were instructed in the exercise by two men—one belonging to Morgan's gang, and the other to Gen. Price's army—and gave evidence that they were fully acquainted with military tactics. Parties of Copperheads have been holding meetings and drilling at Castlefin, six miles north of Marshall, also at Martinsville. The meeting on Saturday seemed to be a concentration of the forces for parade, etc. The same paper notices the arrival at Springfield of John Amburn and G. W. Sampson, living near Athens, in Menard County, who had been arrested for treason, by order of Gen. Ammen.

It is stated by the Washington Chronicle, that the majority of the Court-Martial before whom Vallandigham has been tried, have sentenced him to the Dry Tortugas for two years, while the minority are in favor of sending him South, with the injunction not to return until the war is over.

GENERAL NEWS.

We have advices from Mexico of an important character, by way of Havana, received by the steamship Eagle, which arrived at this port last evening. The latest authentic news from Puebla is to the 23d ult., at which time the city was still in possession of the Mexicans, and was likely to continue so. The French appear to have lost some of the important positions gained by them at the date of our last previous advices, and to have been forced back to the fort of San Javier. One account even goes so far as to say they have abandoned the siege entirely, and have fallen back on their original position at Amalucan, on the road to Amalucan. This, however, is probably an overstatement of the case. A private letter received in Havana states, that since the first occupation of the Fort San Javier, the French army has not obtained any advantage. Several attacks have been made upon various points, but always with ill success, and sometimes with absolute defeat. On the 19th they opened a cannonade upon the Carmen Fort, which lasted forty hours, when a breach was made. Several columns then proceeded to make an assault, but they were driven back by the bayonet, leaving the streets filled with their killed and wounded. Their losses have been very heavy.

The American Home Missionary Society held its thirty-seventh annual meeting at Irving Hall, last evening. Rev. Leonard Bacon, D. D., presided, and addresses were made by Henry Ward Beecher and Rev. Joseph E. Roy, of Chicago, Ill. The Treasurer's report was read by Christopher R. Robert, Esq., showing that the receipts were $184,884 29, and the expenditures $134,996 08. There are, however, claims against the Society of $60,331 11, to meet which there is in the treasury but $35,429. The receipts were $1,031 78 more than the previous year, and the expenditures $23,345 25 less—the latter occasioned by the Presbyterian Church Committee taking care of that denomination.

The American Tract Society held its Thirty-eighth Annual Meeting, yesterday morning, at Irving Hall. Right Rev. Chas. P. McIlvaine occupied the Chair, and addresses were made by Rev. Messrs. H. G. Weston, D. D., Rev. Joseph F. Duryea, Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, Rev. Dr. DeWitt, and the Chairman. The operations of the Society—especially in the work of evangelizing the army and the contrabands was generally approved. The receipts of the Society, last year, were $159,197, 60—making, with the balance in the Treasury, $251,416 19. The expenses were $239,083 08, leaving a balance of $12,362 13 on hand. The Society printed, during the year, 161,305,062 pages—upward of $40,000 worth of which was distributed gratuitously.

The anniversary of the American Tract Society of Boston, was held at Irving Hall yesterday afternoon. The annual report was read by the Secretary, Rev. Mr. Warren, by which it appears that the total receipts in the business Department for the past year were $82,854 58; expenditures, $80,001 51; in the charitable Department, the receipts were $54,835 95; expenditure, $44,345 04. The meeting was addressed by Rev. J. W. Alvord, Rev. G. S. F. Savage, of Chicago, and Rev. E. N. Kirk, D. D., of Boston.

The New-York Sunday School Union held its Forty-seventh Anniversary in Irving Hall on Tuesday evening. Addresses were made by Rev. Dr. Bell, Rev. J. Dewitt Tallmadge and Rev Dr. Hodge. In the P. M., Anniversaries for the children were held in many churches in the City.

The Convention of Methodist Laymen, in favor of a Lay representation in the Church Conferences, was held yesterday at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, in Fourth-avenue. Ex-Gov. Wright, of Indiana, was elected permanent President, and Gov. Cannon, of Delaware, and some twenty other prominent laymen, Vice-Presidents. Gov. Wright addressed the Convention at considerable length, in favor of the objects for which it had been called together, and at the conclusion of his remarks, the body adjourned till to-day.

A meeting, under the auspices of the Irish Relief Executive Committee of Brooklyn, was held at the Academy of Music in that city last evening, for the purpose of collecting funds to aid the distress now prevailing in Ireland. The house, in consequence of the inclement state of the weather, was only moderately filled, although tickets to the number of at least 4,000 had been sold—each ticket at 50 cents. Mayor Kalbfleisch presided, and a long list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries were read and approved. Addresses in aid of the cause were made by J. L. Douglass, Esq., Right Rev. Bishop Loughlin, and others.

The anticipated fight for $250 a side, between Elliott and Dunn, came off at Weehawken yesterday morning. After fighting twelve rounds in the space of little over half an hour, Dunn was declared winner, in consequence of a foul blow given him by Elliott. About 500 of the "gentry" were present. An unsuccessful attempt was made by the Sheriffs of Hudson County and Hoboken to break up the affair. Several policemen in disguise were on the ground, but did not interfere.

Yesterday the steamer Cosmopolitan from Hilton Head brought to this city 198 sick and discharged soldiers, and 91 soldiers transferred to New-York hospitals. They were sent to David's Island. Also 30 sick soldiers arrived in Jersey City from Washington. They were sent to the hospital on Lexington Avenue.

The Nashville Union expresses the greatest anxiety regarding the manner in which the people of that city are to be subsisted during the coming Summer and Fall. With all the avenues of trade cut off last year, and an army garrisoning the city, the supplies of provisions which had accumulated there were soon consumed, and the army compelled to forage upon the surrounding country. The beef cattle, &c., in the hands of farmers, were impressed to an extent which reduced the stock to a bare sufficiency for the subsistence of the farmers themselves. The country has been so thoroughly stripped that the butchers find it impossible to supply the city with fresh meats; and it seems, at present, that the family market will, ere long, be totally without such supplies. The few hogs left in the country, instead of being reserved for butchery in the Fall, are being slaughtered for present necessities. The Union urges that the restrictions which have been placed upon trade, ought to be immediately so far removed, that merchants and families desiring to do so, can lay in meat and breadstuffs in quantities sufficient to relieve apprehensions of suffering, before the dry season closes the river against them.

The Asa Geitz, one of the new iron-clads, a river Monitor, has just gone down to Cairo from St. Louis, and will at once join the fleet at Vicksburgh.

In the Court of Sessions, yesterday, before Judge McCunn, Geo. Hettrich and John Riordon severally pleaded guilty to assault and battery. Hettrich was remanded, and Riordon was fined 6 cents. In the case of Edward Jones, who pleaded guilty to assault and battery on John Connolly, it was erroneously stated that Connolly had died from the effects of his wounds. This is a mistake; his injuries were not serious.

In the habeas corpus case of James P. Hambleton, of Georgia, which was to have been argued, yesterday, before Judge McCunn, the parties having the prisoner in charge did not appear, and an attachment was issued against Capt. Armstrong, of the Park Barracks, the custodian of Hambleton, for contempt of court. Hambleton, meantime, has been sent to Fort Lafayette by order of Gen. Wool, and Capt. Armstrong has left town.

The Stock Market was again much excited yesterday, particularly on Erie and the Western Railways and the Pacific Mail and Canton. Gold, ½@¾ ₩ cent. higher, closing 149¾. Exchange, 163½@164½. Money in good supply, at 6 ₩ cent. as the rule of the Street. The sales of U. S. Stock of the 5-20 year 6 ₩ cent. issue amounted to $1,312,000.

Low grades of Flour were more active yesterday, at uniform prices. Corn was freely offered and purchased at reduced rates. Wheat, Rye, Oats, Coffee, Metals, Molasses, Cotton, Fruit, Seeds, Rice, Salt, Saltpetre, Spices, Chemicals and Tobacco were inactive. Sugars, Oils, Mackerel and Smoked Herring were more sought after. Moderate transactions were reported in Provisions, chiefly in hog products, at easier prices. Tallow, Whiskey and Freights were less active. Jobbers reported a livelier business in Dry Goods, resulting from the execution of fresh country orders, but the tendency of prices, both privately and at auction, was toward a lower range. The commission and importing houses were not doing much. There were 578 vessels of all classes in port.

The Live Stock markets are generally overstocked this week, though all the cattle were sold, and at advanced rates. The shad season is drawing to a close, and from a surfeit of fish, citizens once more turn with a relish to the savory beef steak, thus creating a good demand for cattle. Beeves foot up 4,309 for the week, viz., 3,491 at the great Forty-fourth-street market; 356 at Browning & O'Brien's, in Sixth-street; 319 at Bergen and Weehawken; and 132 bought by the butchers at Albany and taken direct to slaughter-houses. Those offered at Forty-fourth-street were eagerly bought up at an advance of fully ½c. ₩ lb. over last week's prices, or 12c.@12½c. ₩ lb., net, weight, for prime animals, 11c.@11½c. for medium grades—the average of all kinds being over 11c. The entire stock was sold out early, but butchers got a full supply of beef, which will last them a week..... Sheep and Lambs are in excess of present wants, and are not selling as well by near 2c. ₩ lb. as they were one week ago. Good unshorn Sheep can be bought, to-day, for 8½c.@9c. ₩ lb., live weight. Some very fat sheared Sheep were sold for 7c. Receipts for the week, 6,214..... Live Hogs are ¼c. lower and are in larger supply than can be sold. Heavy corn-fed Hogs are worth 4¼c.@4½c. ₩ lb. Receipts, 11,633.

The State Convention of the Loyal Leagues.

We are glad to know that large preparations are being made to insure that the Convention of the Loyal Leagues of the State, to be held at Utica on the 27th inst., in pursuance of the resolution of the great Madison-square gathering, shall be worthy of the occasion. The design is to give concentrated expression to the war spirit of the Empire State. If properly carried out, it cannot fail to have a prodigious influence in reassuring and reanimating the loyal people throughout the North. New-York has an influence proportioned to her magnitude and power. When she speaks at all, she is listened to; when she speaks with emphasis, she is sure to carry a special moral force.

It is the more important that this demonstration should be a just exponent of the war feeling of our State, in view of the fact that the advocates of peace have issued a call for a State Convention the week afterward to indorse their sentiments. The leaders of the Peace party have appealed to the public with a distinctness and directness which we cannot help respecting, notwithstanding their policy would be so fatal. In their summons to the people, they say: "After more than two years continual and unceasing military conflict, we are for taking one step on the road of peaceful effort. We are now for a vigorous prosecution of peace." This is the exact opposite of the policy sought to be promoted by the Utica Convention, which, in the words of its call, is "to sustain the Government in prosecuting the war which it is compelled to wage in its own defense against a groundless and wicked rebellion, and to put forth any efforts and submit to any sacrifices which may be necessary to destroy the military power arrayed against the Government of the United States." Both calls are addressed to the people without regard to past political divisions, or to present differences of opinion upon party questions. The issue is fairly made on the intrinsic merits of the two policies; and the appeal, in each case, is put on its own exclusive grounds. The comparative magnitude and spirit of the two demonstrations, occurring with so brief an interval between, will be particularly noted not only by the entire North, but by the people of every rebel State. It will be taken as the index of the present predominant sentiment of the great State of New-York, and will tell one way or the other with peculiar effect.

The truth is, as every loyal man in this State knows, that the immense majority of our people are opposed to any pacific advances whatever to the treason that now rules at Richmond; and that they mean to make inexorable and unremitting war upon it until it submits to rightful authority, or is exterminated from the face of the earth. The popular spirit, whatever the little ripples on the surface, is as strong on this subject as it has been at any time since the war begun. It pervades the entire Republican party, and the great mass of the Democratic party. The body of our people are not so simple as not to know that any overtures to the Confederacy will be taken merely as a confession of impotence and despair, and will only confirm it in its arrogance and contumacy. Nor are they so craven as to wilt down into the attitude of a suppliant because they have been hurt and don't like hard blows. They understand thoroughly that there is no possible way to restore the unity of the Republic but by putting down the rebellion by the strong arm; they know that there is the power to do this, and their will is as fixed as fate that, under God, it shall be done. What is wanted now is that this understanding and purpose shall be once more made manifest to the world. We have not a doubt that the summons will be heeded, and that a response will be given by the truly loyal people of all parties that will appal every recreant, and be accepted from Maine to Texas as a conclusive pledge that the first of the States will maintain the war policy of the Government, if need be, to its last dollar and its last drop of blood.

The returned veterans of the war in all parts of the State, are to be on the ground at Utica; and a portion of the proceedings of the assemblage are to be expressly adapted to render them their deserved tribute. It is a most excellent arrangement. The hearts of all loyal men burn within them to do honor to the noble fellows who, in the bloody field, have made such splendid fight for the old flag, and so gloriously vindicated that proudest of all State mottoes, "Excelsior." Send them on;—the unscathed, the scarred, the mutilated—even the wounded who can travel, for the blessings of the people will do them a world of good. Send them all on. There shall be a high fraternization of the people with the heroes of the war, that shall ratify and sanctify the vow of the people to remain faithful to the war. These veterans are the representatives of a hundred and fifty thousand sons of New-York who are still in the field. Honor done to them will be virtually done to all. Every New-York soldier will be nerved all the more stoutly for it. He will be made once more sure that there is a community of spirit between him and those he left behind him; and will know that he is not fighting in vain—that though he himself may be stricken down, the cause will still live. The civilian, in beholding these living mementoes of the gallantry, and devotion, and fortitude of his brothers under arms, will be penetrated with a livelier shame than ever of every despondent feeling, and an intenser abhorrence of every factious suggestion. The occasion may be, and we trust will be, of incalculable benefit to both army and people.

Let nothing be left undone to insure a magnificent rally. It behooves not only every Loyal League, but every loyal individual, to labor to that end. Efforts made in this way are as truly a service to the Government as deeds of arms. The Government—we of course use the word without reference to the particular persons who administer it—has as much need of moral as of physical support. It is just as much the part of the civilian to furnish the one, as it is for the soldier to render the other. The Republic, in this, its day of peril, expects every man to do his duty.

The Death of Stonewall Jackson.

In the death of Stonewall Jackson, the rebels have unquestionably lost by far their greatest military leader, in the peculiar style of strategy which has made his name famous. Immediately after the secession of Virginia he appeared on the scene, and ever since then he has been one of the foremost figures. He was the leader in the first hostile act of the Secessionists of Virginia—the march upon Harper's Ferry. In the first great action of the war, the battle of Manassas Plains, he took part, and one of his characteristic personal and military qualities, expressed in his title of "Stonewall," here first appeared. In every great battle fought since that time by the main rebel army, and in many minor affairs, he has been a leading actor—in the Peninsular battles, where he was the first to attack our right; in the second battle of Manassas; at the battle of Antietam; at the battle of Fredericksburgh, and lastly at the battle of Chancellorsville, on the 3d, in which engagement he received his death-wound—inflicted accidentally, it is said, by one of his own men. His campaign up and down the Shenandoah Valley, in the Spring of last year, and his series of engagements with Gens. Banks and Fremont, were only inferior in importance to the six or seven first-class battles in which he played his part. In each of the battles in which he acted subordinately, he was generally assigned to the peculiar and critical duties of opening the assault, making a dashing movement upon the flank or rear, or seizing and holding a point which might be called the key of the situation. In a short letter, written by him about a year ago, in reply to the accusation of having written a piece of sentimental poetry, he denied the poetical imputation, and said that the only ambition of his life was to serve the South, and "give a practical illustration of some of the simplest rules of war." These rules seem to have been celerity of movement, concentration of force, and rapid, persistent and heavy blows on his adversary's most vulnerable point;—while the body with which he operated he kept in an extraordinary state of mobility. The numerical strength of that force seems to have varied from the twelve or fifteen thousand he commanded in the Shenandoah Valley to the forty thousand he was usually credited with in the great actions.

The traits of Stonewall Jackson's personal character are nearly as familiar to the public as his military feats. He was a man of narrow mind, but of tremendous will and indomitable purpose; and he flung the great energy of his nature into all that he undertook. He was strictly moral and fanatically religious; and the fact that he was a ruling elder in the Presbyterian Church shows that he stood well with his brethren. He was an acute political speculator and an ardent devotee of the Southern State Rights school. Like Gen. Lee himself, he was, however, a theoretical Unionist up to the very date of Virginia's secession; and, like Lee, he is said to have struggled long in deciding between his duty to his country and his devotion to Virginia; and it was only when his own State drew the sword, that he at last determined to follow her fortunes. He was but 37 years of age at the time of his death—was a graduate of West Point, an actor in the Mexican war, and at the time of the breaking out of secession, was a Professor in the Military Institute in Lexington, Va. His death is a tremendous and irreparable loss to the secession cause, as no other rebel of like character has been developed during the war. He will figure in history as one of the ablest of modern military leaders; and it will only be the brand of traitor on his brow that will consign him to infamy, as it has brought him to an untimely grave.

Streight's Cavalry Raid.—The cavalry (or rather, mounted infantry) force of Col. Streight, which the rebels claim has fallen into their hands, was on its way to Rome, Ga., to destroy the rebel powder-mill and iron-works at that place, and also to break up certain railroad communications. The expedition was projected by General Rosecrans, and left Corinth under escort of a heavy infantry force, under General Dodge, some three weeks since. Gen. Dodge pushed as far east as Tuscumbia, Ala., and had four fights on his way—two at Buzzard's Roost, and the others at Bear Creek and Town Creek;—the precise location of the battle-fields it is difficult to give, but they are all near the line dividing Alabama from Mississippi, in the north. From Tuscumbia Streight's horsemen started across Alabama for Rome. The preceding fights, however, had put the rebels on the alert, and a cavalry force, under the guerrilla Forrest, was detached from Bragg's army to operate against them. They seem to have very soon fell in with a part of Streight's raiders, and attacked them; but Streight pushed straight on for Rome, relying upon the pluck of his men and the bottom of his horses, and fighting the rebels ceaselessly as he went. Finally the pursuing rebels overmastered him, and took, we know not how large a part of his force, captive—Bragg, in his brief report of the affair, claiming that the whole detachment are prisoners.

This was by far the most dangerous of the recent cavalry raids. Stoneman swept down to Richmond without warning and unmolested; but Dodge's infantry force, covering Streight's advance, had fighting with the enemy almost from the moment it left Corinth, and thus the rebels were warned. Grierson galloped through Mississippi, and there were none to oppose him unless taken from the army at Vicksburgh, from which they could not be spared; but Col. Streight's expedition led round for a long distance in and near the rear of Bragg's army, which was lying in quiet at Tullahoma, and from which a large force could safely be detached, as soon as it was known by the fighting near Corinth that the movement had begun. Col. Streight's raid, though it did not extend over as large a territory as that of Col. Grierson, and though not as flashy as that of Gen. Stoneman, was infinitely the more daring and dangerous of the three; and if his expedition has really come to grief, it seems to have been after the most heroic efforts on his part, for he had almost reached the point in Georgia at which he aimed, and Gen. Bragg claims that the capture was made "after five days and nights of fighting and marching."

Charleston in England.—The English journals at hand by the latest mail, discuss very fully the news they had received of the last attack on Charleston. They view the matter almost entirely in its scientific aspects, and come to conclusions as varied and inconclusive as those reached by different classes of speculators in this country.

Our repulse is not generally made a pretext for pressing intervention or for their "friendly offices" to us. Mr. Seward's famous dispatch of February last, in reply to M. Drouyn de Lhuys, seems to have put a pretty effectual quietus on that style of argument, of which we used to hear so much.

The London Times and other journals dwell a great deal on the terribly discouraging effect the repulse must have had upon the North—"more discouraging than any previous reverse of the war"—"discouragement in the very date and locality of the event," etc. It's a mistake. We are very hard to discourage now. We have got beyond the time when we were easily discouraged. In the early part of the war we were often affected in this way, and after every trivial reverse, thousands cried to give up the contest—it was no use. But now we have grown harder, and shall probably grow much harder yet. We push right on through storms, darkness and disaster—though the storms rage never so wildly, the heavens be ever so black, or though every step be encompassed with disaster. We are, at last, firmly set to achieve the work, and the immovable conviction that we shall ultimately and gloriously triumph sustains us through every fortune.

Rebel Negroes.—We have, from one of our Mississippi gunboat correspondents, confirmation of the statement already made by our correspondent with Gen. Grant's land force, that the troops who manned the rebel batteries and fought the action, in the recent battle at Grand Gulf, were negroes. The writer is in a position to speak knowingly, for he was not only present at the engagement, but, we believe, had a hand in it, and saw the enemy with his own eyes, as well as felt him. He says:

> "The guns in the rebel batteries were manned almost wholly by negroes, a single white man, or perhaps two, directing operations. There is no mistake on this point. The writer was near enough to the batteries for him to observe from time to time the color of the rebel gunners. Many others—all who took any notice—concur in this."

The rebel negroes, in this engagement, seem to have fought extremely well; and the rebel journals claim the battle as a great victory. They were unflinching and persistent; and though we have finally succeeded in capturing Grand Gulf, there is no doubt that our iron-clad and other gunboats suffered severely, and were repulsed in their first essays. Now that Jeff. Davis is convicted of using negro soldiers to support his tottering power and to overthrow the Union, we do not see that he can carry out the proclamation of December last, denouncing our negro troops, and denying them, when captured, the privileges of prisoners of war.

Correction.—We spoke on Monday of the news from the Philadelphia papers concerning the advance upon Richmond as having been sent by telegraph from Philadelphia to this City, and as having thus passed under the notice of the Government Censor. We have since learned that this was not so. It came from Philadelphia here by special messenger, and was only committed to the telegraph from this City to Boston, over the Independent line.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

Washington, Wednesday, May 13.

THE FUGITIVE SLAVE CASE.

The case of Andrew Hall, the slave claimed under the Fugitive Slave law by G. W. Duvall, of Maryland, was before the Supreme Court of the District to-day. Judge Carter refused to pass upon the constitutionality of the law, it having been already decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. He said no man can be arrested and returned to a disloyal master. The Court desired further argument, which was set for some day this week, on two points—first, whether the powers delegated to the old Circuit Court of the District were transferred to this Court. The Chief Justice of the Circuit Court had been the properly designated party to execute the law, and it was to be decided whether the Justices of this Court possessed the same powers; and second, whether the provisions of the Fugitive Slave law applied to the District of Columbia.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

The receipts of internal revenue yesterday and to-day are over $375,000.

CONDITION OF THE ARMY.

Gov. Curtin returned from the army to-day. He spent several days among the troops, visiting the wounded, and attending specially to the interests of the Pennsylvanians. He reports the army in capital condition, and in good spirits.

SEIZURES UNDER THE CONFISCATION ACT.

Seizures of confiscable property here have at last begun. Marshal Lamon to-day seized, under the Confiscation act, the property of Chas. A. Wallach, now in the service of the rebel Government. He is a brother of Mayor Wallach, and of Douglas Wallach, editor of the Star. Millions of other property await the action of the Government, including the property of Mr. Corcoran, now in France.

ASSISTANT WAR-SECRETARY WATSON.

The Assistant Secretary of War, Peter H. Watson, went to the State of New-York to-day, to find in the quiet of a Delaware County farm, the health and strength which he has so prodigally wasted in the service of the Government. When the history of the gigantic struggle to save the Great Republic is written, mention will be made of those men who noislessly and in the recesses of departmental bureaus, have, with complete conscientiousness, great intelligence and that rare courage which dares pursue a line of duty through obloquy and opposition, organized armies, created navies, guarded the Treasury, purified administration, repressed domestic treason. Among these none will have a more honorable or enduring fame than the Assistant War-Secretary, Watson.

THE FOREIGN LOAN.

It is understood that Secretary Chase received by the last steamer official advices from Robert J. Walker to the effect that he would probably negotiate, within the ensuing week, a loan of one hundred millions on satisfactory terms, interest payable in London.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

Arrangements have already been completed by Col. Hoffman for the exchange of all Union officers and soldiers captured by the rebels in late battles on the Rappahannock. Nearly all of the rebel prisoners have been sent to City Point.

THE WOUNDED.

Almost all of our wounded have been brought here from the hospitals at Potomac Creek and Falmouth. Medical supplies have been sent across the Rappahannock for the use of our wounded.

EXAMINING SURGEONS.

The following Examining Surgeons were appointed to-day by Commissioner Barrett: Robert Frazer, Camden, N. Y.; Livingston Elwood, Schenectady, N. Y.; James P. Osborne, Felchville, Vt.; Alexander Stewart, Shippensburgh, Penn.

COLORED TROOPS.

The colored men of Alexandria are imitating the example set by their brethren here, and have commenced the organization of a regiment. Well-informed persons assert that there are six thousand able-bodied negroes in this region ready to enlist as soon as proper inducements are offered by the authorities.

NO PASSES.

The Secretary of War has directed that while the Army of the Potomac remains in its present position, no passes shall be granted to persons to visit it for the purpose of obtaining the bodies of their friends killed in the late engagement.

MOSBY'S GUERRILLAS.

A dispatch received to-day by Gen. Heintzelman, from Gen. Schenck, says that Mosby is again on the war-path with three hundred guerrillas, and at present is operating in the vicinity of Leesburgh.

THE REBEL FORCE AT CHANCELLORSVILLE.

A letter received to-day by a Secessionist here, from a rebel Major confined in Fort Delaware, says the rebel force in the recent engagement at Chancellorsville did not exceed seventy thousand. The writer admits that the rebel loss is much greater than the Federal.

THE D'UTASSY CASE.

The testimony for the defence in Col. D'Utassy's case was closed to-day. Upon his request, D'Utassy was granted until next Wednesday to prepare a speech.

CONTRACTS.

Among the contracts solicited and proposals made to the War Department last week, are the following: E. B. Rogers, of New-York, proposes to sell two steamers, one for $17,500, the other for $9,000, or to charter them; A. Van Santwoord, of Albany, proposes to sell the new steamer City of Albany for $85,000; also, a new steamer now building at Albany for $35,000; A. P. Fernandez & Co., of New-York, propose to charter the propeller P. F. Barnard for $200 per day, on long time—the value of the vessel is $10,000; A. Beebe, of New-York, proposes to lease two buildings in that City to the Government for confining prisoners—one at $100 per month and the other at $250 per month—or to provide rations for 1,000 or 1,400 men at $18 per month each; Fitch & Waldo, of New-York, offer 10,000 infantry accoutrements at $3 50; Calhoun, Lacey & Co., of New-York, offer horse equipments at $23; C. S. Storms, of New-York, offers horse equipments at $24 50; Starr, Arms & Co., of Yonkers, N. Y., offers 3,000 Starr's pistols at $12; John Hoey, of New-York, offers 28,000 Prussian muskets at $4, 8,000 Suhl rifles at $8, 600 Chasseur de Vincennes at $10.

DISMISSED.

An order dated Adjutant-General's Office, Washington, May 5, reads thus:

> "The sentence of dismissal, in the case of First Lieut. William L. Gold, Sixty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, promulgated in General Orders, No. 13, Headquarters Army of the Potomac, is inoperative, in consequence of irregularities in the proceedings of the Court-martial. Lieut. Gold is, however, dismissed by direction of the President of the United States, on the recommendation of Maj.-Gen. Hooker, to date from Feb. 18, 1863, when the said order was issued; he having been found guilty of 'disobedience of orders,' and 'conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.'"

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, Wednesday, May 13.

GEN. HALLECK NOT TO TAKE THE FIELD.

The Star says, that it has reason to believe that there is no truth in the story that Gen. Halleck designs taking the field in person, in the next movement of the Army of the Potomac.

AN ORDER FROM SECRETARY STANTON.

The Secretary of War has directed that while the Army of the Potomac remains in its present position, no passes shall be granted to persons to visit it with the view of obtaining the bodies of deceased friends.

NEWS FROM GEN. GRANT.

A telegram was received here to-day from Gen. Grant, dated the 6th inst., when his force was on the Big Black River, which says nothing whatever of having had an engagement on the day when, according to a rebel telegram, it was alleged that he was repulsed.

CAPTURE OF A BLOCKADE RUNNER.

Capt. Charles S. Boggs, commanding United States steamer Sacramento, reports that on the night of the 1st instant he captured, in the vicinity of the entrance to Wilmington, N. C., the English schooner Wanderer, from Nassau, while endeavoring to run the blockade. She was cleared for Beaufort, N. C., and was loaded with salt and herrings.

NAVAL OFFICERS AND MEN CAPTURED.

The Navy Department, to-day, received information, from the proper authorities at Fort Monroe, that the officers and men of the following vessels, who had from time to time been made prisoners by the rebels, have been exchanged, viz.: Those of the steamers Mercedita, Queen of the West, Harriet Lane, Isaac Smith and Columbia, and of the schooner Vassar.

NAVAL.

Acting Master J. D. Warren has been promoted to be an Acting Volunteer Lieutenant, and ordered to the command of the storeship Release.

Acting Master Charles H. Brown, of the steamer Cœur de Leon, has been promoted to be Volunteer Lieutenant, and Acting Ensign William S. Morris, of the same vessel to be Acting Master.

Acting Master F. A. Miller has been ordered to the steamer James Adger, and Acting Ensign G. A. Churchill, to the steamer Memphis.

DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA.

The Rebels Refuse to Receive the Disloyal Citizens Sent Them by Gen. Foster—The Nine Months' Men Express a Determination to Re-enlist.

Newbern, N. C., Thursday, May 7.

The United States steamer Gen. Meigs leaves here for New-York at 4½ o'clock this afternoon.

It is said that the rebels refuse to receive the disloyal citizens sent out of our lines yesterday, except those who can give security of their ability to take care of themselves.

Gen. Foster has recently paid a handsome tribute to the nine months' men in this department. Gen. Foster says there are no braver or better disciplined troops in the world, and from the day they entered the service they have not only successfully rivaled our veteran soldiers, but have proved more than a match for the enemy in every engagement.

A large majority of these nine months' soldiers have expressed a determination to reënlist for the war, after a month's furlough, provided they can return to this department and fight under their old chief, Gen. Foster.

Amusements.

Mr. MARETZEK, although the best of managers, is the most unfortunate of men. If his singers do not happen to be sick, or to have an appointment with their lawyers in Belgium, the weather is sure to be execrable. It is certain to happen that in some way or other there will be a good excuse for a bad attendance. Last evening, when "Ione"—a work that really pleases our public—was played, the attendance was of course affected by the storm that awaited the opening of the doors, but there was an indication that, had it not been for these adverse circumstances, the audience would have been measurably up to the old standard.

The opera was excellently given in all respects—the cast being essentially the same as last season, and not to be improved. Mme. MEDORI'S rôle, however, fell to the lot of Mme. GUERRABELLA, who sustained it with admirable discretion, imparting to it a different reading, and thus avoiding comparison with her predecessor. It is seldom that we have heard this artiste to greater advantage. The music suits her voice, and dramatically she throws much grace and spirit into the impersonation of Ione. It is certainly one of her best parts.

The opera will be repeated on Saturday for a matinée. On Friday, VERDI'S opera of "Aroldo" will be given.

WINTER GARDEN.—TOM TAYLOR'S comedy of "Babes in the Wood," in which Mr. J. S. CLARKE first achieved his reputation in New-York, was revived at this theatre last night with complete success. The piece has been considerably improved, by being reduced to two acts, and was received with a continuous roar of laughter from its commencement to its close. Of Mr. CLARKE'S Beetle it is sufficient to say that it is fitted to hang as a companion-picture to his Toodles. He was more than once called before the curtain to receive the congratulations of the house.

CONCERT.—Mme. DE LUSSAN will give her annual concert to-night, at Dodworth's Saloon, assisted by Signor CENTEMERI, Monsieur DE LA PERRIERE, Monsieur APPY, (violinist,) Mr. H. PATTISON, (pianist,) and Signor MORRA, (conductor.)

The Second and Sixteenth New-York Volunteers on their Way Home.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, May 13—2:44 P. M.

The Second and Sixteenth regiments New-York Volunteers left Camden at 10 o'clock, on their return home.

NEW-YORK WEEKLY TIMES.

The NEW-YORK WEEKLY TIMES is published THIS MORNING, and may be had at the counter of the publication office, in wrappers, ready for mailing. Price FIVE CENTS.

In addition to the latest intelligence by telegraph up to the moment of going to press, there will be found in the current number full details of all military movements in the different departments, from the pens of our special correspondents. Also, all official orders, reports and documents, and the latest and fullest Washington news. European news, with graphic letters from our correspondents in London and Paris, giving the tone of public feeling abroad, is made a special and permanent feature. In addition to Editorials on all the current topics of the day, the WEEKLY TIMES has a page of carefully prepared commercial matter, giving the latest financial news and market reports; items of agriculture and domestic interest, compiled from sources many of which are otherwise inaccessible to the American reader; and marriages and deaths of the week.

The "WEEKLY RECORD," or news summary—being a careful synopsis and digest of the news of the day, both rebellion and general—is alone worth double the subscription price to the paper, as it preserves in a condensed and conveniently classified form all news of interest, and must prove valuable as a record to all time.

The WEEKLY TIMES will be sent to subscribers in any part of the country on the following terms: One copy one year, $2; three copies one year, $5; ten copies one year, $15; twenty copies one year, $25. To any one who will send us a Club of Twenty, the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES will be sent gratuitously for one year. To any one sending us a Club of Fifty, the DAILY TIMES will be sent gratis for one year.

Costiveness.—No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails, and no one can expect to enjoy health permanently who permits it, for it is contrary to the economy of the system, and gives rise to a goodly proportion of the ills which afflict the human race. To neglect it, therefore, is to insure ill health of greater or less duration; yet, in attempting its removal, discrimination with regard to the remedies to be used is requisite. Violent purgatives temporarily remove obstructions, weaken the bowels, and reduce the strength of the patient, and are followed usually by greater constipation, rendering another and another dose necessary, until even the strongest purgatives lose their effect, and the patient's condition becomes deplorable. What is required is a gentle purgative—one having some action on the liver, and one that can be taken daily without impairing the strength of the patient, or injury to the system, until the tendency to constipation is removed. But few remedies have been found to meet these requirements, and of these few probably none have been so successful, as demonstrated by many years' use, as Dr. D. JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS. They are usually taken every night at bedtime, causing, in proper doses, no inconvenience during the night, and producing no sickness or unpleasant effect during the day, so that persons may follow their usual avocations, whether of business or pleasure, in the same manner as if they had not taken the Pills. Their good effect will begin to be obvious after a week or two's use, particularly in greater clearness of mind, and an increased energy and disposition to work and to enjoy life, and their continued use in the restoration of the health to the patient. Sold by KITCHEN, TYLER & CO., and at retail by Druggists generally.

PURE BLOOD CURES.—WHEN THE BILE has not the requisite healthy qualities, we become costive. To restore the bile to a state of health, the blood must be purified. You cannot purify the blood but by occasional purgatives, and they should be continued for several days in succession, then there may be a greater or less interval of rest. Some persons have used BRANDRETH'S Pills every day in small doses until they became cured of costiveness, which had troubled them for over twenty years. The use of this medicine does not debilitate or require an increase of dose from continued use. They in fact strengthen the bowels, as exercise does the arms or legs.

DANIEL J. TENNY, of Astor House, New-York, cured himself of costiveness of ten years standing by their use alone.

Mr. COOK, Editor of Democratic Banner, Bennington, Vt., cured of costiveness and dyspepsia by BRANDRETH'S Pills, when all other medicines had failed, and when his doctors pronounced him incurable.

Mr. BLISS, of Bushwick, cured of debility and costiveness by BRANDRETH'S Pills, when he despaired of ever regaining his health.

Remember reference will be given to persons whom BRANDRETH'S Pills have cured of costiveness of over twenty years' duration, and in cases where no natural action of the bowels had taken place in twenty years.

DEAFNESS
NOISES IN THE HEAD,
Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,
CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.

Author of "Surgical and Practical Observations on the Diseases of the Ear, with his new Mode of Treatment."

NEW TESTIMONY.

NEW-YORK, May 6.

I was entirely deaf in my left ear, accompanied by a discharge. I placed myself under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S care, who, by his great skill, restored me to perfect hearing, in the short space of a few minutes, without giving me the slightest pain, and the discharge has ceased entirely. The Eustachian Tube, which was obliterated, is quite open, and I feel that the air-passage performs its functions. I am amply satisfied, and recommend every one suffering from impaired hearing to place themselves under the treatment of this eminent and successful physician.

THOMAS GRANAN, No. 539 6th-av."

"NEW-YORK, May 7, 1863.

I have great pleasure to testify to the skill of Dr. VON EISENBERG. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. It is nearly twelve months since, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted two or three minutes in each of my ears, gave me no pain whatsoever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S unsurpassing skill.

SAMUEL C. HUNT,
No. 6 Meserole-av., Greenpoint, L. I."

WEST HOUSTON-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain. JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

No. 188 MERCER-ST., NEW-YORK.

J. E. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. No one can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

will cause the hair to grow in the most luxuriant manner. It is a sure preventive against baldness; prevents the hair from falling out or from turning premature gray. Will restore gray hair to its original color, by curing the disease of the scalp.

CERTIFICATES.

This is to certify that, about eighteen months ago, I commenced using STERLING'S AMBROSIA. My hair was short, thin, and rapidly falling out. I had tried many Hair Tonics, Invigorators, &c., without receiving any benefit. Soon after using the Ambrosia, my hair ceased falling out, and commenced growing so rapidly as to astonish me. Now, my hair is thick, soft and glossy, and is five feet four inches in length—when let down, reaching to the floor. This wonderful result I attribute solely to the use of STERLING'S AMBROSIA, as since I commenced using it I have applied nothing else to my hair.

USEFUL AND VALUABLE DISCOVERY!
HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT
Is of more general practical utility than any invention now before the public. It has been thoroughly tested during the last two years by practical men, and pronounced by all to be Superior to any Adhesive Preparation known.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT
Is a new thing, and the result of years of study; the combination is on
SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES,
And under no circumstances or change of temperature will it become corrupt or emit any offensive smell.

BOOT AND SHOE
Manufacturers, using Machines, will find it the best article known, for Cementing the Channels, as it works without delay, is not affected by any change of temperature.

JEWELERS
Will find it sufficiently adhesive for their use, as has been proved.

IT IS ESPECIALLY ADAPTED TO LEATHER,
And we claim as an especial merit, that it sticks patches and linings to boots and shoes sufficiently strong without stitching.

IT IS THE ONLY LIQUID CEMENT
Extant that is a sure thing for mending
FURNITURE, CROCKERY, TOYS, BONE, IVORY,
And articles of household use.

REMEMBER HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT
is in a liquid form, and as easily applied as paste.
HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT
is insoluble in water or oil.
HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT
adheres oily substances.

HUNT'S MERCHANT'S MAGAZINE
AND COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

The following is a portion of the contents of the MAY NUMBER of this Magazine, which is now ready:

1. NATIONAL ACCUMULATION AND NATIONAL INCOME—This article is very able and especially valuable at the present time, showing, as it does, the ACCUMULATIONS AND INCOME OF THE UNITED STATES, AND ITS ABILITY TO PAY ITS DEBT AND TAXES.

2. THE ISLAND OF ST. DOMINGO—Its Wants and its Wealth.

3. AGREEMENT AND ASSENT; what constitutes a valid agreement, and when is an agreement binding and when void, &c., &c. This is the Second of the SERIES OF LEGAL ARTICLES we are now publishing, and we call the especial attention of business men to them. No legal education is required to understand them, for the principles and rules of law will be found to be stated in such a manner as to make them interesting and intelligible to every one. EVERY MERCHANT AND EVERY BANKER NEEDS FOR HIS DAILY USE JUST SUCH INFORMATION AS THESE ARTICLES CONTAIN.

4. THE LUMBER TRADE OF THE UNITED STATES for 1862.

5. COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL REVIEW FOR THE MONTH—This monthly review contains each month a history of all financial movements and changes for the four weeks past, with valuable reflections and suggestions, and also tables giving the exports, imports, movements in gold, exchange, &c., &c. In the volume for the year therefore, this one monthly article furnishes EACH SUBSCRIBER WITH A COMPLETE FINANCIAL HISTORY FOR THE YEAR, IN A FORM MORE CONVENIENT FOR PRESERVATION AND REFERENCE THAN CAN ELSEWHERE BE FOUND.

6. The United States Mint for 1862.

7. Value of the Exports of the United States, &c. Official returns furnished by the Treasury Department.

AND MANY OTHER ARTICLES, with highly important STATISTICAL TABLES, which, together, make the MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE invaluable to all who are interested in financial questions, or in the progress of our country in any department of trade, as well as to every one who is desirous of keeping in a COMPACT AND ACCESSIBLE FORM THE COMMERCIAL HISTORY OF THE TIMES.

Terms, five dollars a year.

Proposals for different articles must be on separate sheets of paper.
Small samples to accompany proposals for all articles except meats.
Each bid must have a printed copy of this advertisement posted at its head, and must be specific in complying precisely with all the terms. Each bid, to have consideration, must contain the written guaranty of two responsible names, as follows:
"We, the undersigned, hereby guaranty that should all or any part of the above bid be accepted, it shall be duly fulfilled according to its true purport and conditions; also, that a written contract with bonds to the amount of one-fourth the value of the stores proposed to be furnished shall be executed, if required."
Bidders may propose for the whole or a part of any article.
Certificates of inspection by professional packers or inspectors, other than the party furnishing the provisions, will be required for all the meats, certifying on the part of the seller their present quality and condition and the immediately preceding inspection. The meats will also be examined and passed upon by Robert P. Getty, Inspector on the part of the United States. The seller's name, place of business, with date of purchase, is required on each package of every article. All boxes to be strapped.
All the stores will be carefully inspected before their delivery, and compared with the retained samples. Returns of weights, signed by a professional Public Weigher, must be furnished whenever required.
Payment, as heretofore, to be made in such funds as may be furnished by the United States.
Contractors are expected to hold their goods, without expense to the United States, until required for shipment.
Proposers whose bids are not accepted are requested to send for their samples on MONDAY, 25th instant.
Blanks for Proposals will be furnished at this office, which must be inclosed in an envelope addressed to the undersigned, and indorsed "Proposals for Subsistence Stores."

PROPOSALS FOR HAY, STRAW AND GRAIN.

ASSISTANT QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, FORAGE, }
DEPARTMENT, corner of G and 22d-sts., }
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16, 1863. }
Written proposals are invited for furnishing HAY, STRAW, OATS and CORN for the use of this depot, to be delivered at the railroad depot, or at any of the Government wharves in this city.
The proposals to be addressed to the undersigned, and they should state the quantity of each article offered, also the price and the date of delivery.
Proposals will be received for five thousand (5,000) bushels of Corn or Oats, and fifty (50) tons of Hay or Straw, and upward, unless it should be for the interest of the Government to contract for a less amount.
All grain to be put up in good sacks, of about two (2) bushels each, which are to be furnished at the cost of the contractor.
The Hay and Straw to be securely baled.
All Grain and Hay offered to be subject to a rigid inspection by the Government Inspector.
Contracts will be awarded from time to time to the lowest responsible bidders, as the interests of the service may require. Good security will be required for the faithful fulfillment of any contract made under this advertisement.
Payment to be made at the completion of the contract.

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
WASHINGTON CITY, March 19, 1863. }
OWNERS OF STEAM VESSELS ARE INvited to send to the Quartermaster-General's Office tenders for their charter or sale.
Tenders should contain descriptions of the vessels, their dimensions, enrolled or registered tonnage, actual carrying capacity, material, whether coppered, whether side-wheel or propellers, whether iron or copper fastened, size and power of engines and boilers; and should state the price at which they are offered, for long or short charter, with the estimated value of the vessel in case of loss, or in case the Government should prefer to purchase instead of chartering.
Owners of steam vessels already in the service of the Quartermaster's Department are requested to make known to the Department any reduction in their present rates which they may be willing to grant, and also the price at which they will be willing to sell them.
All such tenders should be addressed to the Quartermaster-General of the United States at Washington, and should be indorsed,
"Proposals for charter or sale of steamers."
When received they will be considered, and the Department will endeavor to reduce the heavy expense attending army transportation, upon the ocean and tide-waters, by substituting, wherever it can do so, cheaper vessels of equal capacity for those now employed.

THE
CONFESSIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF AN INVALID.

Published for the benefit, and as a warning and A CAUTION TO YOUNG MEN who suffer from Spermatorrhœa, Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, etc., supplying, at the same time, THE MEANS OF SELF CURE, by one who has cured himself after being put to great expense and injury through medical humbug and quackery. By inclosing a post paid addressed envelope, single copies may be had of the author.

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR, Esq.,
Bedford, Kings Co., N. Y.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 12 Laight-st., near Canal, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and expense than any one can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much-neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks. Permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance, failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to DR. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st., the only place. Call, send or write.

SURE CURE—BY DR. POWERS, SUCCESSfully consulted with Dr. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st. Conducted on the plan of the Hospital des Veneriens, Paris, where those afflicted with any form of private disease can receive prompt treatment, without risk or exposure, viz.: Syphilis, gonorrhœa, gleet, strictures, ulcers, tumors, cancers, secondary and constitutional syphilis, diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. Thirty years of extensive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of those complaints enable us to effect cures in cases where others of less experience have failed. Dr. Powers' Essence of Life restores the vigor of youth in four weeks. This marvelous agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions—physical disqualifications, impediments to marriage, thereby speedily cured. The men to consult, Drs. Ward and Powers, the champions and kings of venereal diseases, possessing the most certain, speedy and only effectual remedies in the world, guarantee a perfect cure, or no charge, in from one to three days. Established in 1840. N. B.—Those who have used their preventives are never without. Send for a circular. To Ladies.—Dr. Powers' Periodical Drops are a safe and certain remedy for monthly irregularities. The above remedies sent by mail. The afflicted should read their circular. Postage free on receipt of a stamp. Cures warranted.

DR. TRALL & JACKSON'S "PATHOLOGY OF THE REPRODUCTIVE ORGANS."—"This is really a scientific work of great practical value. All other works on the subjects discussed in this volume, that have fallen under our observation, are addressed mainly to a prurient taste, and are positively pernicious."—Chicago Tribune. "This volume is full of scientific information of incalculable benefit in the cure of disease."—New-Bedford Mercury. "It is unquestionably the most complete, the most sensible and the most valuable work of its kind yet published."—The New-Yorker. "It offers judicious advice to suffering humanity, which will save thousands from complicating their afflictions by resorting to quack doctors and empirical treatment."—Boston Journal. "It is the only work in existence containing directions which will positively cure that distressing disease termed spermatorrhœa, and other sexual diseases which cause so much misery to the human family."—Boston Express.

Price $1. Sold in New-York by FOWLER & WELLS, No. 308 Broadway.

THE VIGOR OF YOUTH IS RESTORED in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitution, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and impediments to marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habit? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALTER POWERS, M. D., No. 12 Laight-st., New-York.

IMPORTANT TO THE MARRIED AND THOSE ABOUT TO BE MARRIED.—Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, has just published the 100th edition of the valuable book, entitled "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION," strictly intended for those whose health or circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family. Price $1. Sold at his office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York; or can be sent by mail, free of postage to any part of the United States and Canada, by inclosing $1, and addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. For sale by H. RICHARDSON, at No. 1 Vesey-st., (Astor House,) and No. 13 Ann st.; FEDERHEN & CO., 13 Court-st., Boston.

A PHYSIOLOGICAL VIEW OF MARRIAGE—Containing nearly 300 pages and 150 fine plates and engravings of the anatomy of the sexual organs, in a state of health and disease, with a treatise on self-abuse, its deplorable consequences upon the mind and body, with the author's plan of treatment—the only rational and successful mode of cure, as shown by the report of cases treated. A truthful adviser to the married and those contemplating marriage, who entertain doubts of their physical condition. Sent free of postage to any address on receipt of 25 cents, in specie or postage stamps. Address Dr. LA CROIX, No. 31 Maiden-lane, Albany, N. Y.

DR. WARD'S MAGICAL INVIGORATORS, IN the form of Pills, will, in fifteen minutes after being taken, make the recipient as vigorous as if nature had never been retarded or debilitated. To the married or single, in every physical exigency, this unrivaled medicine is earnestly recommended as a complete restorative of the nervous system where manhood has been impaired. Procured of Dr. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st., near Canal. Call or send for circulars.

DR. POWERS' PERIODICAL DROPS are designed for both married and single ladies, and are the very best thing known for the purpose, as they will bring on the monthly sickness in cases of obstruction from any cause, and after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. Expressly for obstinate cases; warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. ☞ Beware of imitations! Purchase directly of Dr. POWERS, No 12 Laight-st., New-York.

DR. JOHNSON, NO. 14 DUANE-ST., MAY be consulted with confidence on private diseases. Thirty years in one specialty enables him to guarantee speedy and permanent cures. N. B.—Those who may have been misled by quack advertisements, nostrums, &c., can call on Dr. J. with the certainty of receiving honorable treatment.

SOMETHING FOR EVERY LADY.—DR. WARD'S Great Female Benefactor or Golden Regulating Pills. Infallible in correcting, regulating and removing all obstructions, from whatever cause, and they will never disappoint the anxious patient. Office, No. 12 Laight-st., where Dr. WARD can be consulted, confidentially, day and evening.

ADVICE TO LADIES.—IN ALL CASES where infallible medicines are desired, or mode of treatment that never fails, call upon Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, author of "The Married Woman's Private Medical Companion," who treats female complaints exclusively. Office No. 129 Liberty-st.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless his remedy is used. That is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians, in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three-cent stamps, 300 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

A CARD.
WM. B. BRADBURY'S
PIANO-FORTE ESTABLISHMENT,
No. 427 Broome-st., corner Crosby-st., New-York.
The undersigned hereby announces to his patrons that, with all his increased facilities, he has been unable fully to meet the present unexpectedly large demand for his Piano-fortes. He is now enlarging his factory to twice its former size, and otherwise greatly increasing his manufacturing facilities, by means of which he will soon be in a position to meet promptly all orders for his instruments. Meanwhile, he begs his customers to be patient, assuring them that their orders shall be filled with the utmost possible dispatch, consistent with thorough and perfect workmanship.
Samples of his different styles may be seen, and the TONE, for which they have become so celebrated, heard, at his warerooms, No. 427 Broome-st., corner of Crosby-st., one block east of Broadway. Professors, amateurs, and all lovers of a good piano are cordially invited to call and try them, with or without reference to purchasing. WM. B. BRADBURY.

GREAT TRIUMPH.
STEINWAY & SONS, Nos. 82 and 84 Walker-st., N. Y., have been awarded a first-prize medal at the Great International Exhibition, London, "for powerful, clear, brilliant and sympathetic tone, with excellent workmanship, as shown in grand and square pianos."
There were 269 pianos from all parts of the world entered for competion; and the special correspondent of the New-York Times says:
"Messrs. Steinway's indorsement by the Jurors is emphatic, and stronger and more to the point than that of any European maker."

UNITED PIANO-FORTE MAKERS.

FROM THE REBEL STATES.

ADDITIONAL FROM FREDERICKSBURGH.

Removing the Wounded to Richmond.

The Rebel Estimates of Their Loss.

JUBILATION OVER THE VICTORY.

Copies of the Richmond Examiner, of Saturday last, furnish us the following interesting extracts:

From Fredericksburgh.

The last of the four ambulance trains due on Thursday, reached the city at 11 o'clock P. M., bringing 1,400 wounded, which makes the whole number received since the battles up to that time, foot up 2,000. We have heard a great deal of complaint against the citizens that they did not volunteer in sufficient numbers to assist in putting the wounded into ambulances. No complaint was ever more unjust. It is true, that on account of the small number of workers, the last wounded were not removed until 3 o'clock on yesterday morning, but for this the persons having it in charge to receive and provide for them, have only themselves to blame. For hours before the arrival of the first train, a cordon of armed men inclosed Broad-street, from curb to curb, from the depot to Fourth-street, for the purpose, as we were informed, of keeping the crowd from pressing upon the wounded. When the trains arrived, this guard drove back, at the point of the bayonet, every citizen who attempted to approach the cars, for any purpose. Citizens who had wounded brothers or sons on board, or who had been waiting hour after hour, for the sole purpose of lending their aid in the removal of the wounded, were driven off by the inexorable guard, who stated to all that their positive instructions were not to permit a citizen to go near the cars. Under these circumstances, the citizens dispersed to their homes, little dreaming that they were to be charged with neglect of duties which they had been forcibly prevented from performing. The people of Richmond are as ready and anxious as ever to aid our gallant soldiers, well or sick; but they cannot be expected to charge over armed men for the purpose.

While on the subject we will say we think there is getting to be a much too free admixture of the bayonet in all of the concerns of life. There seems to be a growing opinion among officials that the commonest affairs cannot be performed without it.

A man who, a year ago, didn't know how to shoulder arms, is appointed to some petty office, and in a trice he must have a file of soldiers before his door. Our own soldiers, torn and broken in the battles of their country, are brought back to us, and the inevitable bayonet pointed at the breast keeps brothers, fathers and friends from coming near them.

CAPTURED ARMS—GOSSIP OF YANKEE PRISONERS.

The last of the trains just mentioned came from Hamilton's Crossing. In a conversation with Capt. BLAKEY, the mail agent, we heard some interesting details.

At Hamilton's Crossing there are more muskets piled on either side of the road than have ever been seen together since the war. They were left on the battle-fields by the Yankees, and many thousand more there are which have not yet been collected.

The number of cannon captured by our army is not yet known, but is said to be over fifty. It is doubtful whether the pieces taken from the Washington Artillery were recaptured. It is most probable the enemy hurried them to the rear, that they might hereafter be paraded as trophies and boasted over.

The Yankee prisoners admit that they were awfully beaten, but say that it was owing to the fact, which they never cease to proclaim, that they have no Generals. They believe their troops are as good as ours, but that we beat them by the superior skill of our Generals. Many of the prisoners say that HOOKER fell, or was knocked from his horse, during the battle of Sunday. They know nothing more than that they saw him fall. This was, doubtless, the origin of the story that he had been wounded, and had his leg taken off.

One of the Yankee officers brought to this city told a gentleman who was in conversation with him that BURNSIDE was not beaten at Fredericksburgh—he was repulsed—but that HOOKER had gotten "perhaps the d—est drubbing that ever a General had."

All our troops are jubilant over what they consider as beyond all comparison the greatest victory of the war. They say the victory of the 13th of December was not a circumstance to it.

We have omitted to mention that the Yankee officers sent down on Thursday night were put into the ladies' cars, while the top of the same cars were covered with our wounded. The scoundrels should be made to walk to Richmond, if well enough, and if not, to remain where they are until the last one of our wounded has been brought down.

THE TRAINS OF YESTERDAY.

The first ambulance train of yesterday reached the city shortly after six o'clock P. M. It brought down 560 wounded and 73 Yankee officers. Citizens were in attendance, with great quantities of refreshments, tea, coffee, liquors, and bread and meat, to all of which the wounded did ample justice. The obnoxious military feature of bayoneting citizens away from the cars did not manifest itself so immediately as upon the previous day. Only after the wounded had been supplied with refreshments was the guard organized and the street cleaned.

THE RESPECTIVE LOSSES.

From a surgeon who left Fredericksburgh on Thursday, we learn that the surgeons in Gen. LEE's army make the following approximate estimate of our loss in the recent battles:

Wounded	7,000	Missing	1,200
Killed	900	Total	9,200

This estimate is liberal, and it is believed that our actual loss will fall below rather than exceed that sum.

The enemy's loss is more a subject of conjecture, but from the number of dead that encumber the ground for miles about Chancellorsville and behind Fredericksburgh, and the prisoners now on their way to Richmond, it is believed that it must be between twenty and twenty-five thousand.

The Last Passage of the Rappahannock.

The Rappahannock has been passed, probably for the last time, by the grand army of the Potomac. It is scarcely possible that the successor of Gen. Judas HOOKER will again attempt to carry it on to Richmond by the mail route. Where the army of the Potomac will next turn its dismal steps, and where it will next be beaten is yet unknown. It is certain, however, that it must move somewhere. From the beginning of the war to this hour it has led the life of that famous "Joe," whose name and fate have been rendered familiar to the world by the most popular of living writers:

"This boy," says the constable, "though he has been repeatedly told to, won't move on"

"I'm always moving on, Sir," cries the boy, wiping away his grimy tears with his arm. "I've always been a moving and a moving on ever since I was born. Where can I possibly move to, Sir, more nor I do move?"

"He won't move on," says the constable calmly, "although he has been repeatedly cautioned, and therefore I am obliged to take him into custody. He's an obstinate a young gonoph as I know. He WON'T MOVE ON."

"O my eye! Where can I move to?" cries the boy quite desperately, clutching at his hair."

This interrogatory cry of poor Joe might be adopted and uttered with heartfelt earnestness by the Grand Army of the Potomac, when next it is taken into custody by the Herald or the TIMES, and sternly told to move on by LINCOLN. Where, indeed! No army ever made such a variety of movements; all have been equally unsatisfactory. Wherever it has moved on, no matter where or which way, it has moved to a beating. No sooner had it came into existence, than it heard, in tones of thunder, the order On to Richmond! It moved on—to Manassas. It has been "a movin on" continually since, and to similar purpose.

The Grand Army of the Potomac has never achieved a success. It has been periodically defeated for two years, and cannot, without such lying as would hurt the conscience of a prostitute, claim a single victory. The annals of history may be searched in vain for another military organization which has been paid more, supplied more, recruited more, deserted more, moved-on more, been more whipped, or which has run away such a monstrous number of times. On all of these points, it may proudly claim a preëminence over the most famous failures of recorded memory. What will become of it now? Must it be thrashed any more? Are its legs equal to yet another race? Can 2.40 be gotten out of it again?

What, too, will become of Judas HOOKER? He betrayed his master, like the other Judas, and like him, the only thing the "reward of iniquity" has gained for him, has been this new Aceldama—this modern Field of Blood. Will he go out, like his prototype, and hang himself there? The prisoners say they saw him falling from his horse. Did he, too, there "burst asunder in the midst, all his bowels gushing out?" Fortunate is he if were so. No form of sudden death would not be preferable to the infamous depths of disgrace into which he will now tumble. After betraying and disgracing MCCLELLAN, BURNSIDE, SUMNER, FRANKLIN, and everything that wears even the outside of honor in the Yankee army; after declaring to his nation that all their failures were simply want of generalship; after thrusting himself forward as the true man of the hour; after having received in superfluity everything that the wildest fancy could crave; taking his own time; without a scapegoat or an excuse possible—he is to-day the worst whipped commander this continent has known. In what condition does he return to those who hearkened to his brag! POPE's reception was happy compared with what he will get from the National scavengers of Washington and New-York.

THE LATE GUNPOWDER EXPLOSION.—In our report of the explosion in yesterday's TIMES at the foot of Seventy-eighth-street, East River, was mentioned as the locality. It should have been Seventy-ninth-street. Mr. SETH C. KEYS, and N. S. HUSTED were among the sufferers by this catastrophe, and not Messrs. REESE & HASTEY as reported. Mr. SAMUEL LAWRENCE's house was very much injured, but not demolished.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

RELIEF FOR IRELAND.

Enthusiastic Meeting at the Brooklyn Academy of Music—Speeches by Bishop Loughlin and Others.

The grand mass meeting of the citizens of Brooklyn, held last night at the Academy of Music, under the auspices of the "Irish Relief Executive Committee," for the purpose of collecting funds to aid the distress now prevailing in Ireland, was a complete success, in a pecuniary point of view, but not numerically, as the inclement weather deterred many of the ticket holders from attending; the same reason also prevented Gens. SCOTT, MCCLELLAN and FITZ JOHN PORTER from being present. The house was moderately filled by an enthusiastic, patriotic and appreciative audience. The orchestra was occupied by the Navy-yard Band. On the stage were seated the officers of the meeting and invited guests, among whom were all the prominent public and private citizens.

At 8 P. M. the meeting was called to order by Mr. J. F. HENNESSEY, who introduced the Chairman, Mayor KALBFLEISH, who made an address explaining the objects of the meeting.

Mr. MEEHAN, editor of the Irish American, then read a list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries, and was followed by Ex-Alderman DOUGLAS, who read an appeal, which depicted the distress in Ireland in glowing colors, after which Right Rev. Bishop LOUGHLIN addressed the meeting in a short and patriotic speech. He would not discuss the causes of Ireland's sufferings, sorrows and wailings—they were permitted by an All-wise Providence—but he would appeal to them for assistance to alleviate those sufferings. [Cheers.] He felt confident that the response of Brooklyn would be liberal. [Cheers.]

Judge DALY was then introduced, and although feeling greatly indisposed, consented to speak a few words in behalf of the land of his birth. He then recurred to the services of the Irish brigade, and spoke of their liberal contributions to the relief of their distressed country. He then reviewed the condition of Ireland a number of years ago, when her people had all that heart could wish for, and contrasted it with that of the present day, when her people are threatened with the most horrible of all deaths—starvation. The laborers were deprived of a subsistence, because all the products of the country were exported and the money went not to enrich the land, but into the pockets of English land owners. [Hisses.] "This came from being governed by a selfish oppressor, who exults in our degradation." [Cheers.]

Mr. J. L. HENNESSEY read the subscription list, which was then presented for general contributions, and $4,000 were collected.

After addresses by W. E. ROBINSON, Esq., and Rev. MATTHEW HALE SMITH, Mayor KALBFLEISCH stated that further contributions could be sent to the following gentlemen: Right Rev. Bishop LOUGHLIN, No. 188 Jay-street; C. DEVER, No. 150 Henry-street; No. 109 Pearl-street, New-York; J. O'MAHONEY, No. 23 Myrtle-avenue.

HENRY MCCLUSKEY, Esq., was the last speaker.

The Hambleton Habeas Corpus.

UNCLE SAM FAILS TO RESPOND AND IS ATTACHED FOR CONTEMPT.

The hearing in the habeas corpus case of JAMES J. HAMBLETON, the Georgia spy, reported in yesterday's TIMES, did not take place yesterday morning according to adjournment, owing to the absence of the parties on whom the writ was served. At the opening of the General Sessions, Judge MCCUNN presiding, WM. C. TRAPHAGEN, counsel for HAMBLETON, arose and stated to the Court that Capt. ARMSTRONG, who had his client in custody when last before His Honor, had not seen fit to obey the order of the Court for the production of the prisoner, and he therefore moved that an attachment issue against him for contempt. The Judge granted the motion, and Capt. ARMSTRONG will probably be arrested as soon as found. We learn, however, that he was relieved from duty at the Park Barracks on Tuesday night, and immediately left town. As for HAMBLETON, he also left town on Tuesday, having been sent to Fort Lafayette by order of Gen. WOOL. This action has probably been taken to avoid the trouble of a long argument upon the question of the jurisdiction of the military and civil authorities. It is not at all probable, however, that HAMBLETON would have been released by Judge MCCUNN, if Gen. WOOL had submitted to the investigation, for the evidence of his being here in the interest of the rebels is ample and decisive. Those who have been with him since he has been in custody, say that he is an open, avowed and rampant Secessionist, and before the late battles at Fredericksburgh he frequently expressed the wish that HOOKER would get cut to pieces, and offered to bet odds that he would be. But the course taken by the military authorities to evade an investigation, will afford the Copperheads an opportunity for another blow about the "Lincoln despotism." Albeit, it will be hard for them to get up much sympathy in this community for Mr. JAMES P. HAMBLETON, the black-mail editor of the quondam Southern Confederacy.

A Prize Fight.

THE CONTEST BETWEEN ELLIOTT AND DUNN—A FOUL BLOW—THE DECISION IN FAVOR OF DUNN—AN UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO STOP THE AFFAIR.

A fight for $250 a side, between ELLIOTT and DUNN, came off at 7 o'clock A. M., yesterday, at Weehawken. Twelve rounds were fought in the space of thirty minutes. During the last round DUNN fell upon the ropes, and while in that position was struck by ELLIOTT, which was decided by the referee to be a foul blow. Such being the decision, the fighting ceased, and the crowd dispersed. The scene was witnessed by about 500 of the sporting fraternity, who crossed the river at the Barclay-street and Forty-second-street Ferries. The Sheriff of the county in which it was first proposed to have the encounter, appeared on the ground before the ropes were put up, and urged the "roughs" to advance a few rods on the road, which would place them within the precincts of another county. But the combatants had hardly clasped hands before opening the entertainment, when the Sheriff of that county suddenly made his appearance within the ring, announced his office, and stated that he had not with him a sufficient force to compel them to observe the law, but demanded that they should not disturb the peace. Cries of "Pitch him out," "Give him a clipper," &c., were instantly raised, and before the Sheriff could count ten, he was launched on all fours at a distance of fifty feet from the stakes. About half a dozen policemen in disguise were present, but they made no attempts at interference. As a general thing the betting was in favor of ELLIOTT. On the eleventh round 160 to 40 was offered that ELLIOTT would win. At the conclusion of the fight the combatants were driven from the ground in carriages. It is claimed that ELLIOTT won the first blood, and DUNN the first knock-down. The result of the affair is very unsatisfactory to ELLIOTT's friends, and possibly the parties will arrange for another meeting. ELLIOTT and DUNN are the parties that attempted to fight on Staten Island on Monday, but were prevented by the Police. ELLIOTT is from New-York City, and DUNN from Brooklyn. The ground selected for the fight, yesterday, is situated about two miles back of the Forty-second-street Ferry. Before the principals had arrived a number of rows occurred, during which several of the combatants had their countenances terribly damaged. Among the backers present were Kit Burns, Phil Clare, Mike Norton, Harry Hill, Mike Henry and Tim Riley. As a preliminary arrangement the principals made a private bet of $50. The stakes have not yet been paid over.

The La Crosse Road Litigation.

The statements in relation to the sale of the La Crosse Road are conflicting, and calculated to mislead. The whole road from Milwaukee to La Crosse is still in the hands of the receiver, where it will remain until the United States Court at Washington settles the relative rights of the eastern and western sections, or they are settled by the parties procuring the recent sale, and the Milwaukee and Minnesota Company, which has undoubted control of the franchise east of Portage.

Judge MILLER stated upon the bench, that having equity powers, he should continue the receiver until the two sections had settled their claims.

American Tract Society.

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of this Society, at Irving Hall yesterday morning, attracted a large audience. Rt. Rev. CHAS. P. MCILVAINE, D. D., President of the Society, occupied the Chair, and Rev. JOHN M. KREBS, D. D., opened the proceedings with prayer. The Treasurer's report was read by MOSES ALLEN, Esq. The following is an abstract of it: Received in donations and legacies, $91,722 46; sales, $159,197 69—making, with balance in the treasury, $251,446 19. Expended—in manufacturing and issuing, $162,327 89; colportage and the army, $35,528 67; cash for foreign lands, $7,000; all other expenses, as by the Treasurer's report, $34,227 32; total, $239,083 88; balance in the treasury, $12,362 31.

The Secretaries, Messrs. HALLOCK and STEVENSON, read the annual report, from which the following interesting statistics are taken:

There were printed during the year 058,050 volumes, 8,182,562 publications, 161,305,062 pages. Total printed in 38 years, 17,627,083 volumes, 251,686,671 publications, 6,160,839,260 pages. Circulation of the American Messenger about 153,000 monthly; Botschafter, or Messenger in German, 29,000; Child's Paper, 225,000. Publications on the Society's list, 3,194, of which 616 are volumes, besides 3,976 publications in about 138 languages, approved for circulation abroad. The gratuitous distribution for the year was 47,512,806 pages, of which 25,969,708 were to the army and navy, and 12,059,400 pages to life members and directors; value upwards of $40,000.

The work among the colored people in Washington, though embarrassed by sickness among them for some weeks, and by the want of a building in which to teach and preach, has been successfully carried forward during the year. Some four thousand negroes have come under the influence of the the Society's laborers for a longer or shorter time. The recent erection of a building at Camp Barker by friends of the Society, gives new and needed facilities for this work in time to come.

Though the number of colporteurs has been less than in former years, there has never been more devotion to the work, nor have the average results been so large. Including 38 students, 137 colporteurs have labored in nearly all of the loyal States and in the Canadian Provinces. They addressed 3,586 public or prayer meetings; made 176,605 family visits; conversed on personal religion or prayed with 118,775 families; found 28,336 who habitually neglected evangelical preaching, 13,467 families of Roman Catholics, 10,577 who had no religious books but the Bible, and 6,691 who were destitute of the word of God. An agency established at Washington is welcomed as an efficient medium of communication between chaplains and soldiers and their friends at home. Nearly twenty-six million pages of the Society's publications have been granted for the use of the army and navy the past year. Since the war commenced, the Society has issued nearly three hundred distinct works, including pocket tracts, leaflets and cards, with special reference to their wants, and has expended about $60,000 in the army and navy work.

Resolutions indorsing the entire work of the Society were adopted, and interesting addresses were made by Rev. H. E. Weston, D. D.; Rev. Joseph T. Duryea, Rev. Charles S. Robinson, Rev. Dr. Dewitt, Right Rev. Bishop McIlvaine, and Rev. Mr. Rockwood. The old officers of the Society were mainly reëlected.

Anniversary of the American Tract Society, of Boston.

Yesterday the anniversary of the above Society was held at Irving Hall. The exercises were opened with prayer and singing, after which the President of the Society, WILLIAM A. BOOTH, Esq., made a brief address. He alluded to the objects of the institution, and the general plan of its operations, and concluded by introducing to the audience Rev. Mr. WARREN, Secretary of the Society, whom he had invited to draw up a statement of facts connected with the management of that body. Mr. WARREN read a lengthy report, which covered in detail the system of operation adopted by the Society. The administration of it is divided into two parts—the business and the charitable departments. The nature of those parts and the relation existing between them were next considered. It was the province of the business department to provide for the sale of all books, tracts and publications manufactured by the Society, and to attend to the accounts, and all matters pertaining to the financial branch of the institution. That department pays from the proceeds of its sales all its own expenses, of whatsoever kind, and all the general expenses of the Society, save those directly connected with its charitable work. It has also, during the past four years, paid in all $7,488 24 of the cost of administering the Charitable Department; and should its business increase as rapidly as it has done, it will, as is hoped, soon sustain the whole cost of that administration, or even have a surplus to add to the charitable funds, as is the case with the Religious Tract Society of London. There have been printed during the year as follows: Of Tracts, in the 12mo. series, 1,220,000 copies; envelope tracts, 576,000; pocket tracts, on tinted paper, 116,000; children's tracts, each with an engraving, 72,000; square miniature tracts, 15,000; hymns, in small leaflets, 80,000; total, 2,079,000 copies, comprising 10,208,000 pages. Volumes, including stitched pamphlets in covers, 382,303 copies, embracing 36,061,885 pages. Papers, Tract Journal, 647,800 copies; Child at Home, 1,595,000; Christian Banner, 630,000. Whole amount of printing done—tracts and books,—46,269,895 pages; papers, 2,872,800. The receipts in cash for publications sold were $52,149 19; from the Charitable Department for grants, $30,705 39; making a total amount of $82,854 58. There have been expended for publications as above, $67,793 86; salaries of Treasurer, Depositary and Clerks, freight, cartage, stationery, interest, repairs, &c., $12,207 65; making a total of $80,001 51.

The receipts in the Charitable Department amount to $54,835 95, of which sum $37,377 02 was received as donations, and $17,458 90 as legacies. There have been gratuitously circulated in the armies of the United States over thirty-three millions of pages, involving, together with the cost of distribution and incidental expenses, an expenditure of $24,547 61. There was also granted in cash, to aid the Press abroad, $1,000, making a total value of grants of $30,705 39. The total amount of disbursements in this Department was $44,345 04.

During the afternoon addresses were made by Revs. J. W. ALVORD, G. S. F. SAVAGE, of Chicago, and E. N. KIRK, D. D., of Boston. The exercises closed with the benediction.

Col. Ringgold's Funeral.

Col. BENJAMIN RINGGOLD, late of the One Hundred and Third regiment New-York Volunteers, killed on Sunday, the 3d inst., at Suffolk, Va., while gallantly leading his regiment into action, was buried yesterday at Greenwood, with befitting pomp and honor. For two days the remains of the dead soldier lay in state at the Governor's Room, City Hall, under guard of a detachment of the lately-returned Ninth regiment, (Hawkins Zouaves,) and a large number of citizens called to take a last look upon the features of the deceased. Owing, however, to the long time that has elapsed since the Colonel was killed, it was thought inadvisable to confer this gratification, and visitors were fain to content themselves with a sight of the decorated rosewood coffin, the sword, the hat, the immortelles and the funereal trappings. The funeral was under the direction of the Common Council Committee on National Affairs, who, of late, unfortunately, have had large experience in burying the country's heroes, and the arrangements were perfect. The procession left the City Hall, at 1½ o'clock, in the following order, under the direction of Col. RUSH C. HAWKINS:

Fifth regiment New-York State Militia, under the command of Col. BURGER.
Two companies of the Third regiment New-York State Militia, under the command of Capt. BRINKER.
Company C, Fourth regiment New-York State Artillery, Capt. SCHELLING.
Officers of the regular army.
Officers of the volunteer army.
Officers of the First division New-York State Militia.
Ninth regiment New-York Volunteers, (Hawkins' Zouaves,) in hollow square, as Guard of Honor, inclosing
THE HEARSE.
The following officers as pall-bearers:

Col. Salm Salm.	Col. Price.
Col. Van Schaick.	Col. Taylor.
Col. Bendix.	Col. Ward.
Col. Maidhoff.	Lieut.-Col. Burleigh.
Lieut.-Col. Betts.	Col. Wehlen.
Col. Roome.	Col. Burger.
Col. Lansing.	Maj. Schmale.
Maj. Warner.	Lieut.-Col. Budke.

Officiating clergymen.
Immediate relations and friends of deceased.
Officers and ex-members of the One Hundred and Third regiment Volunteers.
The Mayor and Common Council, preceded by the Sergeants-at-Arms.
Fire Department.
Citizens generally.

The cortege passed through several of the principal streets of the City and down Broadway to South Ferry. The body was taken to Greenwood for interment, and a funeral volley was fired by Hawkins' Zouaves.

Arrival of Sick and Discharged Soldiers from Hilton Head, S. C.

The steamer Cosmopolitan, which arrived yesterday from Hilton Head, S. C., brought home 198 sick and discharged soldiers, and 1 sick soldiers, to be placed in the hospitals of this City. One of the discharged men—Corp. C. R. ABBOTT, Company K, Eleventh Maine regiment—died on the passage, and will be buried in this City. Thirty-two of the discharged men require hospital treatment. They were transferred to the General Hospital at David's Island. Medical Inspector MASSEY was a passenger on the steamer. The vessel, being in the hospital service, will return as soon as some alterations have been made.

Thirty sick soldiers arrived at Jersey City from Washington on the afternoon train. They were sent to the General Hospital, corner of Fifty-first-street and Lexington-avenue.

Service at Trinity Church.

To-day being "Holy Thursday," or Ascension Day, the usual church service for the occasion will be performed in Trinity Church, the rector, Rev. Dr. DIX, preaching the sermon. An unusual feature of the service will be the presence of a combination choir, including those of Trinity and of St. George's, Flushing, and numbering sixty men and boys. This is the largest choir of male voices ever heard in the country, and the effect cannot fail to be most imposing. The service (Te Deum and Jubilate) is by NARES, in F. Anthem—"God is gone up with a merry noise," by CUTLER. The Proper Psalms for the day—8th, 15th, 21st—will be sung to the Anglican chants in common use. It is an interesting feature of the occasion that to-day is the seventeenth anniversary of the consecration of the church. The services will begin at 11 o'clock.

The Blind.

The annual exhibition of the New-York Institution for the Blind will take place at Irving Hall, on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock.

The performances will be of a varied and attractive character. In the academical department great progress has been made during the year. In music, the programme indicates that the band and chorus singers will not be a whit behind the remarkable performances of previous years. Tickets may be had at the door, or of the Managers of the Institution.

CLERGYMEN AND OTHERS INTERESTED are invited to call at our warerooms, Nos. 5 and 7 Mercer-street, New-York, and examine the new Cabinet Organs, with from one to twelve stops each, recently introduced by MASON & HAMLIN. They surpass all other instruments of the class, for smaller churches, chapels, Sabbath school-rooms, and private houses, while the prices are very moderate, viz., $70, $85, $95, $120 and upwards, each. Dr. LOWELL MASON, Dr. THOMAS HASTINGS, and more than fifty of the most distinguished organists and musicians of New-York, Boston, &c., bear witness in written testimony to the great value of these new instruments, and their entire superiority to all others.

MASON BROTHERS.

It is always well to make a good beginning in everything we attempt, whether in the way of business or in dress. In the latter this is especially true, and a man who should have on a bad hat would be open to censure, though he were dressed elegantly in every other respect. If, however, he begins with a good hat, such as can be found at KNOX'S, No. 212 Broadway, corner of Fulton-street, we overlook the rest of the attire in our admiration of his castor. To be well dressed, procure one of KNOX's elegant hats.
